

Wallace Scores Barriers Put on Trading in U.S.

Charges They Cause
'Incalculable Economic Loss'

ISSUES REPORT

Wisconsin Tax on Oleo- margarine Is Cited As Example

Washington—The Secretary of Agriculture Wallace appealed to the states yesterday for removal of trade barriers which he declared were impeding business recovery and causing "incalculable economic loss" to the nation.

He issued a report saying practically every state has placed regulations and restrictions upon interstate trade in recent years. Among the practices cited were "discriminatory" inspection fees, licenses and taxes on goods produced in other states; conflicting food grading, embargoes and other impositions, and state-financed advertising of farm products.

"The existence of trade barriers between the states provided a powerful incentive for calling the constitutional convention in 1787," Wallace said. "The resulting constitution, it was thought, insured free trade between the states. Today, we can not say that we have free trade between the states."

Urges Cooperation
Although the report made no formal recommendations for legislation, it urged federal and state cooperation in attacking the whole problem of interstate barriers.

To promote free trade in dairy products, the report suggested that the states adopt a standard milk ordinance "which would safeguard the two-fold purpose of adequately protecting public health and interfering as little as possible with the free flow of dairy products." Supplementing this would be a system of federal inspection.

The agriculture department in a report on interstate trade barriers, said that state measures restricting sale of margarine were creating ill-feeling and retaliation and could not be expected to give appreciable aid to dairy farmers.

More than half the states, the department said, have laws designed to protect butter from competition of margarine. Most of these laws impose heavy excise taxes on the butter substitute, particularly if it includes raw materials, not produced within the state.

Little Effect on Price
The department said that if consumption of margarine were to be prohibited and persons formerly using the product used butter, the maximum increase in the price of butter would be less than 2 cents a pound. It added that since many margarine users might not use butter, the actual increase might be less than a cent a pound.

The report said "resentment" spread throughout the cotton-producing states of the south when Wisconsin enacted legislation imposing a 15-cent-a-pound tax on margarine. Cottonseed oil is one of the principal materials used in making the butter substitute.

Protective legislation, or even the threat of protective action, by one state may lead to similar measures by others," the report said. "In the case of state protection, moreover, there is the danger that a competition for protective favors will arise within the state itself. Having granted protection against outside competition to one industry, the state may soon find itself under considerable pressure to grant similar favors to other distressed industries."

"If excessive taxes may be used against margarine, what is to bar their effective use against other commodities?" it asked.

Smuggling of Aliens Aired At House Quiz

Committee Told 'Millions'
Brought Into U. S. Illegally Annually

New Yorker Says Ships
Overmanned to Permit 'Desertions'

Washington—The House rules committee heard testimony today that "well organized" groups were smuggling "millions" of aliens into the United States annually.

Chairman Dickstein (D-N. Y.) of the house immigration committee made the statement in asking legislative right-of-way for a measure to empower his committee to ask a thorough study of the subject aimed at revision of the immigration and naturalization laws.

Dickstein said practices of certain steamship companies and captains in overmanning their ships would be given particular attention. As an example of how some aliens are smuggled into the country, Dickstein said a ship which could be operated by 700 men comes in with 950 crew members and the surplus deserts.

"These extra men are not sailors," he asserted. "They are put there for a price."

Paid $25 to $50
Congressman Schulte (D-Ind.), a member of Dickstein's committee, testified that "a great many captains are being paid $25 to $50 a head" for every alien they bring in illegally.

"Thousands of aliens are coming across the borders with no one trying to stop them," Schulte added. "That's a serious charge to make I know, but I make it."

Congressman Dempsey (D-N. M.), a member of the rules committee, told the group that a former head of the patrol on the Canadian border had informed the house committee investigating un-American activities that he and his entire division of 68 men had been dropped from the service shortly after Secretary of Labor Perkins took office. The immigration and naturalization service is a labor department Bureau.

"They had been deporting about 37,000 aliens annually," Dempsey

Lewis Proposes Labor Conclaves

Wants American Congress
Of Labor to Supercede
Present Groups

Washington—C.I.O. leader John L. Lewis proposed at a conference of A. F. of L. and C. I. O. peace committee in the White House today that the two rival organizations summon their memberships into special conventions during the last two weeks of April.

Lewis made public his proposal in a written statement after the rival committees had spent 45 minutes with President Roosevelt completing arrangements for another joint meeting at the labor department tomorrow morning.

Lewis' program for special labor conventions included the four railroad brotherhoods in the transportation field.

"This convention," Lewis said in his statement, "is to organize and dedicate the American Congress of Labor, designed to supercede and embrace the membership of the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. and to include the membership of the railroad organizations."

Lewis' startling proposal for the unification of all labor organizations into one movement called for the adoption of a constitution and the election of officers to head a new movement.

Lewis proposed that neither himself nor William Green would be eligible for election to any office in the combined convention of all labor groups.

He proposed that the new labor movement grant A. F. of L. President Green a life tenure of his present salary for services rendered.

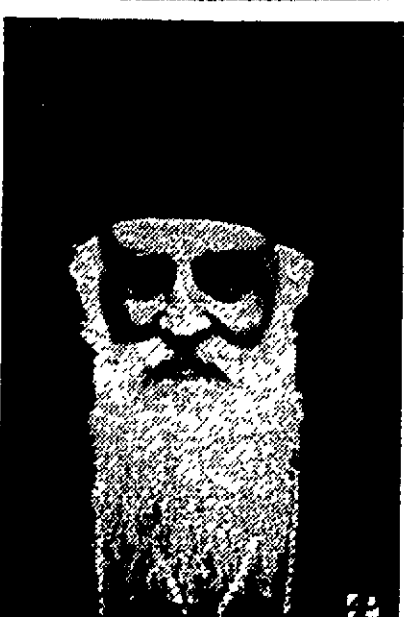

The British viceroy of India, the marquis of Linlithgow, intervened in Gandhi's dispute with the ruler of Rajkot, 29-year-old Thakore Sahib Shri Dharmendrasinhji.

Settlement of the dispute—Gandhi sought more democratic forms of government—was regarded as another significant victory for the revered leader of millions of Indians.

This afternoon Gandhi accepted an invitation from the viceroy to visit New Delhi as soon as he had regained sufficient strength for personal discussions of the reforms he demanded.

It was understood that the ruler of Rajkot state agreed to fulfill his original promise to set up an advisory council whose purpose would be to suggest ways of introducing a democratic government.

Gandhi started the fast when he and the ruler failed to agree on representation on the council. Gandhi alleged that the Thakore broke the original promise to set up the council when he demanded representation for interests not belonging to Gandhi's congress party.

PATRIARCH DIES

Bucharest, Rumania—The death of Miron Cristea (above), premier and patriarch of the Rumanian church, brought a period of national sorrow today—and a new premier who was hailed as a political "strong man." Three hours after the death of the venerable Dr. Cristea at Cannes, France, last night, King Carol named as premier, Armand Calinescu, lawyer, educator and vigorous champion of law and order in government. Calinescu had been vice premier, minister of war and interior. He retains the latter two posts.

Kyle Quits Post As Secretary of State Labor Board

Declares Progress Toward Industrial Peace Has Been Jeopardized

Madison—Declaring recent developments in Wisconsin have jeopardized the progress toward industrial peace, Jack K. Kyle, White-water, announced today he had resigned as executive secretary of the state labor relations board.

The resignations of two board members, Prof. Edwin E. Witte of the University of Wisconsin and Messrs. Francis Haas of Washington, D. C., also are before Governor Dell. The third member and chairman of the board is Vovta Wraebert, who also is chairman of the state industrial commission.

Kyle was named board secretary April 28, 1937. He previously was secretary to United States Senator Robert La Follette in Washington, and was on Governor Philip La Follette's staff at intervals in 1931 and 1936.

Deplores Recent Trends
Kyle contended that under its original labor board Wisconsin succeeded in a large measure in securing industrial peace, but that the opportunity for constructive service had been halted by recent trends. He added:

"Unfortunately recently developed progress toward industrial peace and have arrayed class against class. In the face of these developments, efforts of the board and its staff to bring about industrial harmony are handicapped and are becoming futile."

The antagonisms which have been stirred up can lead only to industrial violence and substitution of force and bloodshed for the peaceful conference table adjustment of disputes developed during the past two years. Distrust and suspicion already are replacing the confidence and mutual respect which had been established between employers and workers."

The labor relations act has been under fire in the legislature. The assembly has indicated it will pass a bill which sponsors claim "would promote equality of bargaining power between employer and employee." The Wisconsin Council of Agriculture prepared the bill.

Gandhi Ends Fast To Gain Reform

Viceroy's Intervention Considered Victory for Indian Leader

Rajkot, India—Wizened, 68-year-old Mohandas K. Gandhi this afternoon ended a fast of 98 hours and 25 minutes to win political reform. He drank a glass of sweet orange juice.

The nourishment was the first since he started the "fast unto death" just over four days ago after drinking a cup of hot goat's milk.

The British viceroy of India, the marquis of Linlithgow, intervened in Gandhi's dispute with the ruler of Rajkot, 29-year-old Thakore Sahib Shri Dharmendrasinhji.

Settlement of the dispute—Gandhi sought more democratic forms of government—was regarded as another significant victory for the revered leader of millions of Indians.

This afternoon Gandhi accepted an invitation from the viceroy to visit New Delhi as soon as he had regained sufficient strength for personal discussions of the reforms he demanded.

It was understood that the ruler of Rajkot state agreed to fulfill his original promise to set up an advisory council whose purpose would be to suggest ways of introducing a democratic government.

House Passes Catlin Labor Bill, 57 to 40

Measure Restricts Disputes to Employers and
Majority of Employees

SENATE MUST ACT

Also Proposes to Ban
'Stranger Picketing' and Secondary Boycotts

Madison—The assembly passed the Catlin labor bill today, restricting labor disputes to employers and majorities of employees, and outlawing "stranger picketing" and secondary boycotts. The vote was 57 to 40.

The bill, introduced by Mark S. Catlin, Jr., (R) Appleton, was assailed by Progressives who claim they would go to the courts to determine its constitutionality if it becomes a law.

Biemiller (P) Milwaukee, said labor would be forced to rely on the federal laws and that passage of the bill would "end up in the worst muddle you ever saw."

The bill must yet be passed by the senate.

The assembly defeated a motion by Rubin (P) Milwaukee to withdraw five bills relating to old age assistance from the committee on public welfare and give them a hearing before committee of the whole. The vote was 57 to 29.

Source Commission
Berquist (P) Rhinelander, referring to Clyde H. Spencer, who is engaged in a "sit-down strike" at Sugar Bush hill conservation fire tower, claimed "there is something radically wrong with the conservation commission."

"It has gotten to a point where the people of Forest county have scheduled a mass-meeting to urge the resignation of Chief Forest Ranger E. J. Vanderwall and protest against the Hitlerized dictatorial conservation department," Berquist said.

Spencer began his "strike" to persuade the conservation commission to open fire lanes leading to Forest county lakes.

Fitzsimons (D) Fond du Lac, introduced a substitute amendment to his "working wives" bill providing that any state department head shall be removed if he hires or fails to discharge a married person whose spouse is earning more than $1,500 and $400 for each dependent annually.

Says Commercial Planes Need Guam

Head of Pan American Airways Urges Appropriation of Fund

Washington—The senate naval committee heard today that improvement of the seaplane landing facilities at Guam was essential to efficient commercial air service to the Orient.

Walter T. Trippe, youthful president and general manager of the Pan American Airways, urged the committee to approve a $5,000,000 authorization for improvements at Guam, tiny Pacific island.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, asked the committee yesterday to restore the item to the naval base bill. It was struck by the house after statements of opponents that Japan might consider fortification of the island a provocative step. The proposed expenditure would provide for dredging the harbor and other improvements.

Senator Bone (D-Wash.) disclosed, meanwhile, that a large group of senators soon would propose drastic tax legislation to take the profits out of war.

Bone's announcement came while the senate approached a final vote on the army expansion bill. It approved yesterday, 54 to 28, a proposal to fix the maximum number of army planes at 6,000, a total of 500 more than the house voted.

Tripe said it would be impossible for present planes to reach the Orient without a stop-over at Guam. He predicted it would be at least 10 years before ships were built which could fly from Wake island to Manila with full loads, passing up Guam.

Father of Quints Not
In Favor of Trip to Visit King and Queen

Callander, Ontario—(Canadian Press)—Olivia Dionne today declared she looked with disfavor on an invitation for her five famous daughters to travel to Toronto May 22 to meet King George and Queen Elizabeth.

"I can't see why the government cannot arrange to have their majesties visit the nursery here," said the quintuplets' father after the Ontario government sent him an invitation and offered two special railway cars to transport him, his wife and five daughters.

Dionne said he would not reply to the invitation until he had consulted Mrs. Dionne.

It was believed the invitation, sent by Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon, would be considered by the four guardians who watch over the quintuplets.

Dr. Allan Roy Dufoe, who is their physician and also a guardian, refused to express an opinion regarding the advisability of the little girls taking such a trip, but said, "if the Ontario government says we must allow the quints to be taken to Toronto, what can we do?"

Martin Faction Sets Self Up as Separate Union

And File Members

Detroit—The Homer Martin faction of the United Automobile Workers set itself up as an independent union today by disavowing any affiliation with the Congress of Industrial Organizations and voting to submit the question of future affiliation to rank and file membership.

Delegates meeting in a convention called by Martin in opposition to a convention of the C.I.O.-supported group of the U.A.W.A. to be held in Cleveland March 27 adopted a resolution declaring that "the question of ultimate affiliation of this union with any congress or federation of unions is one which can be decided only by submission to the general membership of this union."

The resolution asserted that affiliation with the C.I.O. "could be accomplished only by sacrificing our democratic autonomy."

The delegates voted, at the request of representatives of the Ford local, to ask Martin to reopen negotiations with the Ford Motor company. Martin's conduct of such negotiations, criticized by his C.I.O. opponents, figured prominently in the January split in the union.

The Martin group offered a financial program calculated to save the union $31,000 a year in officers' salaries as a major inducement for support from automobile workers.

Lopping off four of five vice presidencies and reducing the executive board membership, the convention slashed pay roll costs to $52,000, compared with $83,000 a year for the original U.A.W.A. set-up.

Delegates to the convention, already solidly behind Martin in the union's factional fight, bickered privately today over candidates for office. Elections were expected to conclude the convention today or tonight.

Too Early to Forecast
Vote on Amle: Barkley

Washington—Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) reported to President Roosevelt yesterday that he was too early to ascertain whether the senate would confirm the nomination of Thomas R. Amle, Wisconsin Progressive, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission.

Barkley told reporters he had advised the chief executive that many senators were waiting to decide on the nomination until after they had read committee hearings.

An interstate commerce subcommittee may consider the appointment at a meeting Wednesday.

Dresses on Snowbank As Fire Destroys His Home at Hortonville

Hortonville—Awakened by the crackling of flames, Theodore Morack rushed to the street in his night clothing and dressed atop a snowbank as fire destroyed his home here about 2 o'clock this morning. Damage was estimated at about $5,000, part of which is covered by insurance.

The blaze is believed to have started from an overheated stove. It was well underway before Morack, who lived alone at the home, was awakened and put in an alarm. The entire inside of the building was ablaze when firemen arrived. They were unable to save the furnishings.

Those seized by police were taken to a district police station where they were unable to explain satisfactorily their presence outside the building. All but one was later released. Police said he was carrying a gun.

Easter Parade Merchandise To be Shown in Spring Opening

Appleton stores will display new spring merchandise for the first time when they turn on window lights Thursday evening to reveal an exciting array of new clothes which style prophets say will be most important in the Easter fashion parade. The opening will continue through Friday and Saturday.

Main floor counters will boast a riot of color in flowers for spring suits, lapels, bright handbags and gloves, frothy masses of white neckwear and sparkling arrays of costume jewelry. Never have clothes been so freshly different, so young in line and gay in color.

Always a favorite with Appleton women, this year's flower prints are gayer and brighter than ever and will take honors in local store fashion shows and displays.

Milinery departments will feature modes from bright little hats with towering masses of flowers to

DIES IN BOSTON

Frank W. Stearns (above), Boston merchant and close friend and adviser of Calvin Coolidge, died of pneumonia last night at his home. He was credited with being an important factor in Coolidge's rise to the presidency.

'White House Floor Walker'
Succumbs at His Home in Boston

Boston—Frank W. Stearns, the Boston dry good merchant who became known as the "White House floor walker" during the administration of Calvin Coolidge, is dead.

The 82-year-old department store executive died at his home last night of pneumonia, second of the close advisors to the late president to die within two days. John G. Sargent, attorney general in the Coolidge cabinet, died in Ludlow, Vt., Sunday.

Stearns became a national figure because of his "discovery" of Mr. Coolidge and because of his unrelenting work in the Massachusetts governor's behalf. His faith in the quiet Vermont was one of the factors which carried Mr. Coolidge from a post as state senator in Massachusetts to the presidency.

His "floor walker" title came to him because of his capacity for intervention to save the president from inconveniences of his place in the White House circle he once said: "Oh, I just run a few errands."

Stearns, after his first contact with Calvin Coolidge in 1914, rapidly became known as Mr. Coolidge's most trusted advisor and most intimate friend.

Stearns went to the national Republican convention in 1920 to fight for his friend's nomination for the presidency and saw him win second honors on the ballot. Subsequently, through the death of President Warren G. Harding, Stearns saw his goal realized.

One son, Foster, United States representative from New Hampshire, and two daughters survive.

Jap Squadrons Bomb 3 Chinese Centers; Fighting Is Severe

Shanghai—Japanese planes blasted at three centers of China's communist-dominated northwest today while the severest fighting of many weeks marked the close of the 20th month of Japan's undeclared war on China.

A Japanese communiqué said 30 planes bombed Yen-an, Chinese communist headquarters in the northern part of unoccupied Shensi province, causing considerable damage to the center of the city and a university there.

Twenty other planes attacked military establishments and barracks at Ningxia, capital of the province of that name, northwest of Shensi, according to the communiqué.

Ten planes raided Tungkwan, at the great bend of the Yellow river, an important station on the Lung-hai railway forming part of the Chinese supply route from Soviet Russia.

A dispatch from that Shensi province town said 14 persons were killed by 24 bombs dropped near the Railway Station.

Revolt Apparently Against Plans for 'Worthy Peace'

Forces Still Hold Few Buildings in Republican Capital

Madrid—Warplanes were used over Madrid by General Jose Miaja's new republican defense government today in an effort to crush an uprising of "some troops" said to have been inspired by communists.

Earlier pronouncements by General Miaja and his defense minister, General Segismundo Casado, said that the revolt—and apparent attempt to force continuation of the civil war as opposed to Miaja's expressed desire for a "worthy peace"—was under control.

It was reported subsequently that communists, who had been holding out in a building on the site of an old race track on Madrid's outskirts, had surrendered but that companion forces still were in possession of a few other buildings elsewhere.

The Miaja government, which succeeded that of Premier Juan Negrin and included no communists, tried to reassure Madrid citizens by broadcasts that the populace should not be frightened by the presence of fighting planes over the city.

Forecast Early Peace
"It is the old republican aviation force standing loyally and unconditionally behind the defense committee government," one radio explanation said.

Meanwhile a quick peace in the Spanish civil war was forecast. Miaja last night became head of the national defense government which succeeded that of ousted Premier Juan Negrin. Communists were excluded from the regime.

"Let's come back to common sense and I assure you the war will end soon," Miaja declared in a radio broadcast today. Last night he had appealed for a "worthy peace."

A dispatch from Hendaye, France, said Miaja was expected to open negotiations at once for a surrender to nationalist Generalissimo Franco conditioned only by safe conduct into exile for republican leaders and a promise that Madrid would be spared a triumphal entry by Italian troops in Franco's ranks.

"Honorable" Peace Aim
"The reason for the formation of the defense cabinet was to end the war in a humane and honorable manner," Miaja said today. "That's our mission."

Referring to the communist uprising he asked:

"Are people trying to fight for a non-existent government such as Negrin's?"

"You know where Negrin is. He is in France."

(The former premier fled by air to Toulouse, France, yesterday and reached Paris today.)

Miaja declared: "You all must obey the defense cabinet which was formed with the help of the people for controlling the situation throughout republican Spain."

"Criminal Adventure"
General Segismundo Casado, who directed the coup which ousted Negrin and who became Miaja's defense minister, said in another broadcast that communists, "desperate because of recent (political) failures, conceived several battalions and plunged them into criminal adventure."

Casado added that the hope of the communists had been to "complete a daring coup at a time when many communist leaders," including Dolores Ibaruri, famed as "La Pasionaria," had fled to Oran, Algeria, "without saying goodbye to the Negrin cabinet."

(In Burgos the nationalist press hailed the overthrow of Negrin and

Martin Promises G.O.P. Backing on Plan for Business

Economy Group Tries to Force Administration To Cut Expenditures

Washington—(AP)—While Republican Leader Martin of the house pledged support for a business improvement program, senate economy advocates were maneuvering today to force the administration to take the initiative in cutting federal spending.

If any treasury proposal to increase the national debt limit can be blocked at this session, they contended, two choices would confront the administration in 1940—curtailing expenditures or boosting taxes.

Secretary Morgenthau declined to say yesterday whether he would ask congress to raise the debt limit from $5,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000 a step which he suggested in January might have to be taken. Should spending continue undiminished, the present limit would be reached about the middle of next year.

Representative Martin's statement that Republicans were willing to aid the administration "in a program to bring about solid and sustained business recovery" was coupled with an appeal for "real government economy."

Few Cuts Likely

"The more taxes and spending—the less recovery," he said. Economy-minded senators said frankly they did not expect any substantial reductions in the appropriations now before congress, because every proposed cut affects so many politically powerful groups that rarely can a majority be found to support it.

They predicted that since the 1940 session will immediately precede the presidential nominating conventions, the only politically practical action at that time would be to trim expenses if the debt limit is not increased.

Secretary Morgenthau reiterated at a press conference yesterday that the treasury was preparing recommendations on how, if at all, the tax laws could be amended to the benefit of business, but he declined to talk about economy questions.

FLEET SEEKS REFUGE

Bizerte, Tunis—(AP)—Spanish Madrid republican fleet, with flags flying, anchored off France's great African naval base today, seeking refuge from the civil war.

Eleven vessels were escorted by a French cruiser and a squadron of destroyers. Detachments of French police and sailors boarded the Spanish warships, which awaited authorization to enter the port.

The vessels were reported to be carrying several thousand refugees in addition to normal crews. They left the revolt-ridden naval base, Cartagena, during the weekend.

DENMARK SURRENDERS

Rome—(AP)—The authoritative fascist editor Virginia Gayda called on France today to turn over to nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco "without delay" the Spanish republican fleet, which has sought refuge at Bizerte, Tunisia.

Gayda, usually regarded as a spokesman for Premier Mussolini, declared that Italy "would not tolerate" the continued presence of the fleet at a point so near Italian shores. (Bizerte is 150 miles from Italian Sicily.)

"It (the fleet) must be speedily disarmed and speedily restored to the government of Franco," Gayda wrote in the newspaper, Il Giornale d'Italia.

Four Foreign-Born Persons Lose Jobs

On WPA in County Four persons, who have not yet become full citizens of the United States, have been removed from WPA projects in Outagamie county, according to Lyle Webster, supervising timekeeper. Two of the workers are of Appleton, one of Kaukauna and one of Little Chute.

Release of foreign-born persons who have not taken out at least second papers or papers at all is in accordance with congressional action to first make room for American born persons who are in need of employment.

In the WPA district No. 2, which includes Outagamie county, 298 persons were removed from projects under the order. By counties the totals are: Brown 35, Sheboygan 50, Winnebago 90, Shawano 8, Door 2, Oconto 15, Marinette 15, Manitowish 10, Fond du Lac 25 and Calumet 2.

Ordinary Mail for Money to Foreign Lands Termed Risky

Postmaster Stephen Baillet today issued a warning against sending money to foreign countries by registered or ordinary mail. As the international money order system offers the safest method of transmitting funds to foreign countries, senders desiring to forward money abroad should be urged to use that system whenever it is practicable.

The latest Postal Bulletin calls attention to the risks involved in the transmission of money in the mails whether in registered or ordinary covers and to the difficulty of fixing responsibility in certain cases where rifling has occurred.

In this connection, the bulletin points out that money in cash, bank notes and values payable to the bearer are prohibited transmission in registered letters addressed to certain American-Spanish countries and in ordinary letters to any foreign country.

Jury Trial Must Decide Price of Waupaca Utility

Court Finds Former Owner Failed to Surrender Franchise Under Law

Madison—(AP)—The state supreme court set aside today two public service commission orders fixing the purchase price in the Waupaca and Edgerton utility acquisition cases.

In the Edgerton case the high court ruled the price must be determined as near as possible to the time the commission issues its final order, rather than at the time the voters elect to buy the property.

This decision declared void the commission order allowing Edgerton to buy the local plant of the Wisconsin Power and Light company for $95,000. The referendum was held in 1933, and because of litigation some five years elapsed before the final order.

In the Waupaca case the court held that the property of the Wisconsin Public Service Corporation could not be taken by the city without jury trial to determine the purchase price.

Kept Franchise

The opinion said the Waupaca Electric Light and Railway company, which formerly owned the plant, failed to surrender its franchise according to the 1907 utility law and therefore did not acquire an indeterminate permit under which utilities waived the right of jury trial.

The price fixed in the Waupaca case was $225,000, the second largest acquisition proceeding pending before the commission.

The indeterminate permit law, although enacted in 1907, was extended to 1911 and at that time the legislature attempted to "force" utilities to take out indeterminate permits to sue in the courts of the United States later held the "force" law was unconstitutional.

The franchise of the Waupaca utility ran until 1914 and the predecessor company operated until that time under an assumption it had qualified for an indeterminate permit. The court held that its supposed acceptance was not taken within the required time.

The court ruled today that a lawsuit against the state can be maintained only by the method which the legislature has provided—the filing of a $1,000 security bond in advance.

The court, in an original action, issued a writ of prohibition dismissing a wage claim against the University of Wisconsin by William Newton Nichols, a painter.

Nichols contended the university had a contract calling for payment of union wages and that his pay was reduced illegally below the union scale of 1930. He sought refunds totalling around $400. Nichols later was dropped from the university payroll.

After various attempts to recover the amount he alleged was due, Nichols instituted suit against the state and the case was brought before the supreme court by Assistant Attorney General Warren Resch.

Nichols maintained he did not claim to file a bond because his claim came within the employers' regulation act forbidding the withholding of wages. The high court ruled the state law made a party to any general regulation act unless it specifically says so by statute.

May Limit Taverns

The right of a municipality to limit the number of taverns licensed to sell liquor was affirmed today by the supreme court.

The court upheld a circuit court decision which denied a license to Otto Bjorland to operate a tavern in the town of Delavan, Walworth county, which had restricted the number of licenses to 25.

Bjorland claimed the local ordinance was unconstitutional. The supreme court said that a restriction upon the number of taverns is a normal and effective means of preventing evils incident to the abuse of intoxicating liquor and promotion of good order and morality within the limits of a municipality.

Only Contributions to Domestic Organization Come Under Act Charitable contributions and gifts made by an individual are deductible from the income, according to R. G. Maynard, deputy collector of internal revenue, if the organization to which the gift is made is a domestic organization operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

If a substantial part of the organization's activities is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, it falls to come within the limitations. No part of the organization's income may inure to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.

Contributions made to a missionary fund, church building, fund or for the benefit of other activities of the church are deductible if the church is a domestic organization. Few rents, assessments and dues paid to churches are regarded as contributions. Gifts to a domestic corporation or domestic association organized or devoted to the advancement of learning are deductible.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible, but if made to a domestic charitable organization, as defined by the revenue act, may be deducted even though the organization distributes funds among the individual beneficiaries.

Contributions made to the United States or any territory or state for exclusively public purposes are deductible; for example, a gift of real estate to a city to be used perpetually as a public park is deductible.

Also allowable are contributions to the special fund for vocational rehabilitation, to posts or organizations of war veterans and their auxiliaries in the United States, and to domestic fraternal societies, orders or associations operating under the lodge system if used for religious, scientific, educational, literary or charitable purposes.

In general the deduction is limited to 15 per cent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions.

Corporate contributions are deductible when made to or for the use of a domestic corporation, domestic community chest fund or foundation which meets the same tests as those made for recipients of individual contributions, but in the case of contributions to a trust, chest fund or foundation, only if the contributions are to be used within the United States. Deduction of corporate contributions is limited to 5 per cent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions.

Continued Search for Frank Miss Relatives An attempt to locate relatives of Frank Miss, about 40, a Seymour farmer who was killed in a traffic crash last week near that city, was being continued today by the sheriff's department. It has been learned he was born in Ontario, Canada, and police there were being contacted to see if he has any living relatives residing there. Funeral arrangements for the accident victim were still tentative today.

Miss and Lawrence Mueller, 20, were killed when Mueller's car and another collided head-on on Highway 35 two miles north of Seymour early last Thursday morning. Four other persons were injured in the accident.

ALLOW BILLS

Bills including $15,331.74 for labor, $2,764.06 for materials and $310 for rights-of-way were allowed by the county highway committee yesterday at the courthouse. The committee members met with W. C. McElendon, traffic engineer of the Green Bay division of the state highway department, regarding highway signs.

Presbyterians to Name New Officers At Dinner Friday

Baptist Brotherhood Will Entertain Women of Church at Party

The annual business meeting of Memorial Presbyterian congregation will take place Friday night at the church, following a dinner to be served at 6:30 by the men of the church. George Ballard is general chairman. The meeting will begin at 7:30 in the church parlors, during which election of officers including elders, trustees and deacons will take place. Last Sunday Dr. Thomas S. Kepler, professor of Bible and religion at Lawrence college, spoke at the morning service on "The Eloquence of Silence."

There will be no meeting of the Lenten institute Wednesday because of the annual meeting Friday. The Men's Brotherhood of First Baptist church will entertain women of the church at a party at 7:30 this evening at the church. Games will be played. Sunday night the first of a series of special services was sponsored by the Brotherhood. They will be held each Sunday night during March and April. In the morning the Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, preached the communion day message, "Jesus Served."

Lenten Meetings

Both First Methodist and First Congregational churches will have their friendship suppers and Lenten meetings Thursday night at the respective churches. Warren Beck, professor of English at Lawrence college, will give another of his lectures Thursday morning under the auspices of Circles 1 and 2, his topic this week to be Milton's "Paradise Lost."

Last Sunday morning Dr. John B. Hanna, pastor, spoke at the congregational church on "The Ideal of God," while Dr. Harry C. Culver preached at the Methodist church at "The Virtue of Simplicity."

Mid-week Lenten services will be held in many of the local churches. At Trinity English Lutheran church the Rev. D. E. Bosserman will speak at the Lenten service at 7:45 Wednesday night, and there will be a Brotherhood topic study and business meeting Friday night in the sub auditorium of the church. Last Sunday the pastor spoke on "The Sure Foundation."

Evening Services Emmanuel Evangelical church will have its Lenten service Thursday night. The Rev. G. H. Blum, pastor, gave a sermon Sunday morning entitled "Tomorrow in Prophecy." At First English Lutheran church the Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor, will speak at the Lenten service at 7:30 Wednesday night on the theme, "The Magnetic Cross." Sunday morning he spoke on "Qualified Through Suffering." A Lenten service will take place at 7:45 Wednesday night at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church. The Rev. A. Gaunther, pastor, spoke Sunday on "The True Bread of Life."

"The Denial of Peter" is the subject of the Lenten sermon to be preached by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer at Mt. Olive Lutheran church at 7:45 Wednesday night. Last Sunday the pastor spoke on "The True Christian Faith Exemplified by the Canaanite Woman." There will be a Lenten service in German at 7:30 Wednesday evening at St. Matthew Lutheran church and in English at 7:30 Thursday evening with the Rev. E. C. Reim on "Men Bearing the Cross."

The Rev. John W. Wilson will go to Shiocton next Sunday to preach one of the sermons at a Lenten preaching mission.

"Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage from the Bible was read: "O Lord our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth! When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which Thou has ordained; what is man, that Thou art mindful of him? and the son of man that Thou visitest him? For Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honour. Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of Thy hands; Thou hast put all things under his feet. Let Israel rejoice in Him that made him; let the children of Zion be joyful in their King."

University Will Offer Public Health Course

Madison—(AP)—The University of Wisconsin faculty approved at its monthly meeting yesterday a course of study in the college of letters and science designed to give the graduate nurse a basic knowledge of the field of public health nursing.

The course recommended through Dean George C. Selleny would lead to the degree of bachelor of science in hygiene. It would combine letters and science and public health studies.

The faculty also authorized President Clarence A. Dykstra to name a committee to arrange for a group insurance contract for the faculty.

Boy Scout Troop Organization Discussed at Brillion Meeting

Brillion—A meeting was held at the Brillion I.O.O.F. hall Friday evening in regard to finding out how many local boys were interested in organizing a Boy Scout troop. The Brillion I.O.O.F. lodge is considering sponsoring the troop.

The general committee in charge includes Ellice Zander, chairman, Lynn Williams and August Lange. Plans were made to conduct several educational meetings to which the parents are invited. The purpose of these meetings is to give both parents and sons a better knowledge of scouting.

Elliot Zander was delegated to consult executive scout officials of the Fox River Valley Council at Appleton Saturday to get information in regard to organizing a troop. It was decided to hold another educational meeting Monday evening at the I.O.O.F. hall. Herb Heilig of Appleton, one of the valley council scout authorities, will be the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Dawson and family left for Moline, Ill., Saturday where Mr. Dawson has accepted a position with the International Harvester company.

Miss Anna Barnard was hostess to the members of the Nickelodeon at her home Saturday evening. Miss Marie Kersten of Milwaukee is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kersten.

Plan Celebration

Birthdays Parties

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Krueger entertained friends and relatives at their home on Saturday evening in observance of the latter's birthday anniversary. Cards and Chinese checkers were enjoyed after which a lunch was served to the Messrs. and Mesdames Charles E. Krueger and Clifford, Frederick and Clarence Haeffrich all of Redwoodville, Earl Kohlmeier and daughter Virginia of Manitowish and Mrs. Behnke.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fielder entertained friends and relatives at their home on Wednesday evening in honor of the latter's birthday anniversary. Cards were played. Those present were the Messrs. and Mesdames Irvin Winkler of Appleton, Hugo Frederick and daughter Fay of Manitowish, Alfred Wittmann, Elnor Schnell, Steve Wittmann, George Worn and daughter Irene, Henry Martz and family, Henry Bleichweil and daughter Caroline, and Keneth Fowers, Frank Bender, Fred Reno, Mrs. Hilbert Radloff and daughter Elaine.

Aid Society Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of Frieden Evangelical and Reformed church was held Friday afternoon. During the business meeting it was decided to purchase several pedestals for the church. Plans were made for the officers to attend the Women's Union of the Fond du Lac region to be held at the Evangelical Lutheran church at Ripon on Friday, March 17. Mrs. F. L. Luckner is the treasurer of the organization. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the Good Friday Union service. The committee consists of the Mesdames F. L. Luckner, Gustave Hagedorn and Rudolph Kruschinski. It was decided to have the next meeting of the society on the second Friday in April instead of the first Friday.

The subject of the program was "Service and Self Denial." The scripture and prayer was conducted by the Rev. John G. Siegle. After the program, lunch and a social hour followed. Mrs. Bernard Otto and Mrs. Clarence Pagel were the hostesses.

Amending Wagner Act Unlikely at Present Session

Peace Negotiations Between Labor Groups To Cause Delay

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Peace negotiations between the A. F. of L. and the CIO, with the federal government as mediator, will delay, if not prevent, any action on the Wagner act at this session of congress.

The announcement by Senator Thomas of Utah, chairman of the senate committee on labor, that, in view of the negotiations, the hearings on proposed amendments must be postponed, has been published, but back of it lies a determination on the part of one labor group to prevent from coming up in congress the very subject matter of the dispute.

Thus, as one CIO leader said, how could there be any peace negotiations if congress were considering the emasculating of those provisions of the existing law which permit industrial unionism?

Announcement has come nevertheless from A. F. of L. sources that bills are to be sponsored for a re-creation of the labor board. This means getting rid of all the present memberships and requiring new appointments by the president and, of course, new confirmation by the senate.

What the A. F. of L. has done is in line with action taken at their annual executive committee meeting in Miami recently, but it would be surprising if the bills were pushed at this time. Certainly, the peace negotiations will not get very far if the struggle as between craft and industrial unions is transferred to Capitol Hill. Under such circumstances, the CIO negotiators might well decline to go on until the issue had been settled in congress.

Amendment Fight
The fight to prevent any amendments from being made to the Wagner act is one which will take on renewed significance according to the negotiations may seem to rise or fall. Thus, while at the moment the CIO has an advantage in keeping the legislative situation at a standstill, the impending threat of a legislative step which may define the respective jurisdictions of craft and industrial unions and forbid the board to exercise discretionary judgment will be in the background as the negotiators between A. F. of L. and CIO pursue their arguments across the peace table.

That the debate will be prolonged seems inevitable. Even if there is a meeting of minds, the details of a truce or working agreement until further steps can be taken is likely to extend over a protracted period. Certainly it seems improbable that by May or June, the situation will have clarified sufficiently for the congress to be willing to take a hand in the ticklish political questions involved in deciding what is an "appropriate unit" for collective bargaining. What the members of the National Labor Relations board have been unable to decide satisfactorily through a series of perplexing decisions is not likely to prove easy for members of congress to decide.

No Legislation
So it does look as if amendments to the Wagner act have become enmeshed to such an extent in the circumstances surrounding the A. F. of L.—CIO peace negotiations that it seems a safe bet of "no legislation" at all at this session. Employer organizations, which have been hopeful that the A. F. of L. would blaze the trail and get action on the subject in congress, will find that the hoped-for initiative is now thwarted by a situation embarrassing alike to the A. F. of L. and to the administration. The CIO may well refuse to negotiate if the subject is interjected in the next few months in congress.

This means a postponement until the congressional session of January, 1940. Members of congress will not like it very much, because, whichever way they vote, many of them will find they will have incurred enemies. Where, however, a surprise may be in store for the labor groups is in the possibility that leadership on revising the Wagner act may come from members of congress who represent rural areas. The propaganda against labor which is being carried on in agricultural districts is considerable, and the union leaders are well aware of it. The administration, anxious to protect its labor vote, is bound to be more assertive than ever in compelling a peace agreement between the CIO and the A. F. of L. and may even find itself compelled to go along with the demands of southern congressmen in coalition with northern representatives from non-industrial states in modifying the Wagner act.

Public Criticism
Union labor may get some of its basic rights subtracted if it allows the present troubled situation to go uncorrected for another year. Certainly, delays work in favor of those who want to see such a public sentiment built up as will result in the complete sabotage of the act. Many of the criticisms of the present law can be met by new regulations by the board itself, in the event that congressional action cannot be attained this year. As between the two courses, specific and explicit amendment by congress is far more desirable than regulation changes, but, as between a drifting, donothing policy which permits public sentiment against the board to accumulate into a sweeping reaction, and the adoption, for instance of certain rules to permit immediate elections in collective bargaining disputes and other changes in the operations of the present law that can be achieved by a modification of regulations, there would seem to be every strategic reason in favor of meeting public criticism now.

But here again the board finds itself under pressure from labor groups and the inclination is to do nothing. Maybe the administration, under the leadership of the new secretary of commerce, Harry Hopkins, will boldly tackle the subject and urge the labor board to take a realistic view of what is being done to undermine the whole system of collective bargaining.

8 Pupils on Highland School A Honor Roll

Eight pupils of the Highland school, town of Freedom, were on the A honor roll for the last six weeks' period, according to Miss Lillian Parsons, teacher. They are Donald Ziegler, Dorothy Woldt, Mildred Kauth, Earl Woldt, Marjorie Buss, Ione Woldt, Aurelia Kauth and Gladys Rubbert. Lloyd Behl was on the B honor roll.

Ione Woldt has a perfect attendance record thus far for the school term. Mildred Kauth, Ione Woldt, Aurelia Kauth and Gladys Rubbert were perfect in attendance during the last six weeks.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble? If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the source of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasant means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Chairman of SEC Is Likely Choice for Supreme Court

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—Apparently it's to be young Bill Douglas for the supreme court—W. O. Douglas, chairman now of the securities and exchange commission.

That was the word passed around over the week-end, following President Roosevelt's return from his vacation cruise. Insiders expect the nomination to go to the senate within a week or 10 days. I always keep my fingers crossed in speculating about presidential appointments but the way in which the green light was given makes me think this tip is reliable.

Political considerations make it expedient for Roosevelt to select his next supreme court man from the west. While Douglas fortunately can pass that qualification, he interests Roosevelt for quite another reason.

Douglas is familiar with corporation structure and practice, as is no other available man. Day in and day out, the preponderant business of the supreme court involves scrutinizing complicated corporation affairs. Douglas understands the modern corporation as Brandeis, whose retirement created the pending vacancy, did when he went on the bench fresh from a spectacular career as the public's lawyer in the corporation world. In his experience here with SEC, Douglas has had daily close-up contact with corporation activities so that he ought to know the insides of present-day corporations like a surgeon knows his anatomy. Douglas operates from a New Deal viewpoint yet he has carried himself with a sense of balance which has won the respect, and an amazing degree of co-operation, from the subjects of his regulation.

Douglas, if anyone, should be on familiar and intimately known ground when corporation lawyers come before the court.

Endorsements From West Are Assured
That is what qualifies him most for the present vacancy and it is that which has led Attorney General Murphy and others to urge his appointment so strongly.

To make the appointment go down more easily an array of endorsements from the west has been assembled: Newspaper and bar association endorsements have been collected from the Pacific northwest.

Actually Douglas is a westerner even though his professional career has been largely in the east, teaching at Columbia and Yale and as a member and later chairman of SEC. He was born in Minnesota and when 5 years old was taken to Washington state, where he went through grade, high school and college. His formative years were spent there. I know from experience that once a middlewesterner, always one, and the same must be true. I suppose, of one who grows up through his formative years in the Pacific northwest. In outlook Douglas is bound to be western.

Considerably Younger Than Usual Appointee
He is short, probably, on the intimate knowledge of the special mining, water and land law which is the subject of such a large proportion of western litigation. The supreme court has no specialist on this sectional body of legal knowledge since the retirements of Van Devanter and Sutherland, and the appointment of Douglas would not materially correct that deficiency. Apparently, however, the other assets of Douglas outweigh that consideration.

Only 40, Douglas is considerably younger than the usual appointee to the supreme court, but he has demonstrated that he is old enough to handle a job which, in its way, is as difficult as his work on the court will be.

Thus it seems improbable that effective objections can be raised against Douglas in the senate and his confirmation would be assured.

As I reported Feb. 15, Douglas is the candidate of Tommy Corcoran. The senate doesn't like that. But if Tommy is smart enough to get behind the logical man first, there isn't much the senate can do about that.

Request Commission To Modify Its Order

Washington—The Wisconsin public service commission petitioned the interstate commerce commission Monday to modify its order of last Nov. 31 so as to authorize an increase of only 7 and 1/2 cents a net ton on lake-cargo coal shipped from mines to lower lake ports when the coal was reshipped later by rail from upper lake ports.

The petition said eastern carriers would not recognize proposed Wisconsin rate revisions and "are placed in the position of being able to dictate the form of the Wisconsin intra-state rate structure or penalize receivers in that state by 2 and 1/2 cents per ton."

Easter Seal Sale For Disabled Will Begin on Mar. 15

Campaign Committees Will Meet at Y. M. C. A. Thursday Night

The Easter seal sale to raise money for the Outagamie county unit of the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled will be launched March 15 and will continue through Easter, Mrs. Mabel O. Shannon, president, announced today.

Plans for the drive will be charted at a meeting of officers and workers from cities, towns and villages in the county at 6:30 Thursday evening at the Appleton Y. M. C. A. The organizations annual quota in the county has been about $625 but this year more money will be needed to help support the state camp for crippled children at Waubesa near Waubesa, Mrs. Shannon said.

A report of the work of the county association since 1935 will be presented at Thursday's night's meeting. The society has purchased wheel chairs, artificial limbs, glasses, hearing devices and supported children at the camp over that period.

Campaign committees will be named at the meeting and individuals will be assigned to territories for the seal sale.

Officers of the association are Mrs. Shannon, president; Joseph Doerfer, vice president; Carl Bertrem, secretary; and Mrs. H. W. Miller, treasurer.

More Snow Due in Appleton, Vicinity

City, County Crews Completing Job of Clearing Highways

The fair weather that yesterday followed on the heels of the winter's most severe snowstorm continued today as city and county snow removal crews were completing the job of clearing the snow from city streets and highways.

Snow, with rising temperatures on Wednesday was the forecast issued today for Appleton and vicinity by the Milwaukee weather bureau. The temperature reached a 24-hour low at 7 o'clock this morning when it registered 6 degrees above zero, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

At noon today the mercury had climbed to 15 degrees and the warm sun was beginning to melt snow and ice on streets and roofs.

Lower temperatures recorded for the last 24-hour period was at Devils Lake, N. D. where the thermometer registered 12 degrees below zero.

City snow removal units were at work again today and the rubbish collection was postponed so that all available equipment could be used for snow clearance. County and state highways were reported to be open for travel.

The forecast issued for general Wisconsin predicted increasing cloudiness followed by snow in the south central and extreme west sections late tonight and colder in the extreme southeast portion of the state.

Collector Gives Help To Income Tax Payers

With little more than a week remaining for persons to file their federal income tax returns, the office of R. G. Maynard, deputy collector of internal revenue, is the scene of unusual activity. Taxpayers of Appleton and vicinity are behind last year's filing, however.

Maynard will be in his office every day except Sunday until 5 o'clock to assist taxpayers in completing their reports. Tax forms can be obtained at the Appleton office or by writing to the collector of internal revenue at Milwaukee, but no blanks are mailed out of the local office.

Editorials on Legion Eligible for Trophy

Indianapolis — (P)—Stephen F. Chadwick of Seattle, national commander of the American Legion, said here today he had given a trophy to be awarded each year to the newspaper publishing the best editorial on the legion.

The award, the Stephen F. Chadwick editorial appreciation trophy, is a shield of walnut, silver and bronze, inscribed with the name of the winner of the trophy.

The trophy will be presented to the winner of the trophy at the Chicago national convention next September.

Chadwick said the purpose was "to give recognition to the work of American newspapers in appraising the worth of the program of the American Legion."

Legion Makes Plans For St. Patrick Party

Plans for a St. Patrick's day party were made at a meeting of the Appleton Legion Monday night at the Legion clubhouse. The affair which will be for members, wives and friends will be held at the clubhouse. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of Clifford Redder, chairman; Earl Engel, Walter Schultz and Ed Fiemer.

Tax Collection Best Since 1931, Kox Says

Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer, said today the 1939 tax collection was the best in Appleton since 1931. About 85 per cent of Appleton property owners have paid their taxes in full and many more have taken advantage of the 50 per cent extension offer. The total collection is about $869,149.66, he said.

City Council to Ponder Tax Plan

Aldermen to Discuss Affidavit System at Special Meeting Today

Appleton aldermen will meet in special session this afternoon to decide whether to extend unpaid taxes to July 1 without penalty under the affidavit plan.

The deadline for the payment of real estate and personal property taxes was March 1. However, the city's plan for extending the payment of half the real estate taxes was used by many taxpayers.

The affidavit plan is an offer of the state legislature to extend unpaid taxes without penalty. The law passed last week gives cities, towns and villages the choice of adopting or rejecting the plan.

The tax situation was discussed at a council meeting last week but aldermen did not then indicate whether they would or would not adopt the plan.

The city treasurer, Joseph A. Kox, said yesterday that if the city adopts the plan, property owners who have not paid their taxes or have not taken advantage of the city's plan, will be given adequate time to file the affidavits.

DEATHS

MRS. GEORGE LUECKER

Mrs. George Luecker, 76, Port Washington and formerly of Brillion, died of heart disease at Port Washington Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Luecker was born Jan. 7, 1863 at Maple Grove. She married March 18, 1885 and moved with her husband to Brillion. Mr. Luecker operated a furniture store and funeral business until 1918 when they moved to Port Washington.

Survivors are the widow; two sons, August, Evanston, Ill.; Edwin, Manitowish; one brother, John Bultz, Reedsville; one sister, Mrs. Charles Krueger, Appleton; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at the Luecker home, Brillion, and 2 o'clock at the Friederich Evangelical and Reformed church. The Rev. Armin Flier, Port Washington, will be in charge and assisted by the Rev. John Siegle, Brillion.

BUSKIE FUNERAL

Military funeral services for William Buskie, 68, who died Saturday at the Wisconsin Veterans home at Waupaca, were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Brett-Schneider funeral home with Dr. John B. Hanna, pastor of the First Congregational church, in charge.

Burial was in Riverside cemetery. Participating in the military services were W. T. Nee, C. B. Peterson, Ferdinand Radtke, Jacob Geraden, George Klepfisz, Jacob Meyer and John Kuchensbecker.

Bearers were Chester, William, Orville and Gerald Appleton and Arthur and Kenneth Coffey.

Big Counterfeiting Ring Is Smashed by Secret Service Men

New York — (P)—The United States secret service said today it had smashed a $1,000,000 counterfeiting ring, the biggest in the nation, with the arrest of six men and two women.

They were seized in three swift raids last night by 25 federal operatives, who also confiscated counterfeiting equipment and $10,000 in bogus $5, $10 and $20 notes.

James J. Maloney, superintendent of the secret service in New York, said the ring was responsible for most of the spurious bills circulating in the United States in the past two years.

Maloney described Henry Newirth, 32, alias Braun, an ex-convict, as the head of the ring and the actual counterfeiter, and he designated another prisoner, Walter H. Irons, 35, as the chief distributor.

2 American Cardinals Received by Pius XII

Vatican City — (P)—Pope Pius XII, opening his regular audiences today, received William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, and George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago.

There were separate private audiences for the American cardinals as there were for five other prelates in the papal apartments on the second floor of the pontifical palace into which the holy father had moved since his election Thursday.

Chamber Directors to Name Election Judges

The Board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce will meet Friday noon at the Conway hotel to elect a nominating committee and appoint election judges. A financial report will be given by E. A. Dettman, treasurer.

SEEK WAYS TO AID RECOVERY

Calling upon all officials of the Treasury department to suggest means of helping business, Secretary Henry Morgenthau set an example by posting a placard saying "Does It Contribute To Recovery?" on his desk. The Secretary said the Treasury's special interest in business improvement now was that it was "tax bill time in the Treasury."

High Court Upholds Decision In 'Lost' Cabin Damage Suit

The story of the lost cabin is closed, but the mystery surrounding its disappearance still remains. The city of Appleton won in the supreme court today on its protest against payment of $1,000 damages for the log cabin which was to have been maintained in Pierce park as a historical landmark.

Heirs of Henry Verwey gave the cabin to the city and it was moved to Pierce park. A short time later it disappeared. The heirs, William H. Steenis, Peter Steenis and Bessie K. Steenis, Appleton, and Julia Schult, Eau Claire, then brought the $1,000 suit against the city. They contended the city failed to comply with the terms of the agreement under which the cabin was donated.

Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court upheld the demurrer of Harry Hoefel, city attorney, for dismissal of the suit. The supreme court today affirmed the decision of the lower court which was appealed by the heirs.

Charge Firms Didn't Turn Over Sales Tax

Columbus, O. — (P)—The Kroger Grocery and Baking company and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company were charged in a taxpayer's suit today with having collected $500,000 in sales taxes from customers without turning the money over to the state.

The suit for the recovery of the taxes was filed in the Ohio supreme court in behalf of Hugh M. Foster of Columbus.

Members of the tax commission were made parties to the action on the ground the commission failed in its responsibility to collect the taxes.

Long Is Sentenced on Charge of Abandonment

Waupaca—County Judge A. M. Scheller this afternoon sentenced Millard F. Long, Clintonville, to 12 to 15 months in state prison at Waupun on a charge of abandonment. Long was found guilty Friday.

He had pleaded not guilty, contending he was suffering from "psycho-neurosis" and was unable to work.

RUBBISH COLLECTION

Canvass for rubbish in Appleton in the first district will begin Wednesday morning. The collection was postponed from today to Wednesday because city crews and equipment were busy clearing snow after the storm over the weekend.

The first district includes that section of the city east of Draw street to the city limits.

Too Little Attention Paid to Minor Cuts, Surgeons are Told

BY STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

Associated Press Science Writer

Atlanta, Ga.—Hand infections resulting from blisters, cuts and removal of slivers were declared today to be the cause of almost 10 per cent of all permanent disability in the United States.

Claw hands and "frozen" hands are frequently the result of infection from such simple things as opening blisters, failing to protect abrasions and squeezing small infected areas such as pimples. Dr. Daniel L. Maguire of Charleston, S. C., told the Southeastern Surgical congress.

Fifty per cent of all hand injuries are the result of infections from such common causes and many of these result in permanent disability not only from the negligence of the patient but from inability of the physician or surgeon to treat them properly.

Frequently the simple inflamed spot on a finger will spread within a few hours and eventually result in amputation of the finger, hand, entire arm or cause death as the infection floods through the blood stream, Dr. Maguire declared.

Too much attention has been given to surgery to major operations and too little to the care and technique of the so-called minor operations such as those done on infected hands, he added, and as a result many needless deaths have occurred and many unnecessary amputations performed.

Lacerations of the hand in fist fights and human bites "cause an exceedingly virulent infection on account of the type of wound and the organisms introduced," Dr. Maguire added, since the mouth constantly harbors millions of germs.

Good Citizen Is Always Ready for Duty, Jurist Says

Circuit Judge Werner Is Speaker at Meeting of Jaces

A good citizen is one who is always ready and willing to make some sacrifices of his time, means and convenience to advance the common welfare, Circuit Judge E. V. Werner told members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Monday evening at the Hotel Appleton.

Further defining the good citizen, Judge Werner stated that such a citizen would always be ready to do his duty without being urged, be dependable and understandingly dedicate his intelligence, wisdom and influence for civic good.

From Washington's farewell address, the speaker presented what he termed the ten commandments of citizenship. They were to reverence religion; diffuse knowledge throughout the country; patronize the arts and sciences; let law and order be unseparable companions; control party spirit so that the majority may not use power to the subjection of the minority; observe good faith and cultivate peace with all nations; shut up every avenue of foreign influence; contract rather than extend national connections; collect the fruits of our joint council, efforts and common danger and be American in thought and deed.

At the business meeting following Judge Werner's talk, the Jaces reviewed the progress made by the Fourth of July committee, made preliminary preparations for competing in the Interclub Olympics on March 31, discussed their participation in the state bowling tournament at Beaver Dam and distributed tickets for the St. Patrick's day dance to be held March 17 at Rainbow Gardens.

Benny Goodman Made Honorary Member of Indiana Legislature

Indianapolis — (P)—Benny Goodman, who 'most everybody calls the king of swing and a master of the clarinet, has a new title today. He's an honorary member of the Indiana legislature.

Senate and house of representatives both voted him into membership last night in a wild jam session his 14-piece orchestra staged in the statehouse.

The "jiving," an incident of the legislature's closing night, set pages, secretaries and a few jitterbug legislators to shagging in the aisles and on desk tops.

Packed galleries shouted and clapped as the band roared "Back Home Again in Indiana," "Back Home Again in Indiana" and several swing numbers.

Benny's clarinet and Martha Tilton's singing were featured. Goodman, thanking legislators for honoring him, gave them "a piece by an Indianapolis boy, Hoagy Carmichael," in "Stardust."

Senator Walter H. Beardsley, Republican, an Elkhart patent-medicine manufacturer, hired Goodman to bring his boys from a theater where they are playing.

The legislature stopped work on the $84,000,000 budget to listen.

Michigan State Police Told to Halt Gambling

Lansing, Mich. — (P)—Michigan state police were under orders of Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald today to enforce anti-gambling laws wherever local authorities fail to act.

The governor, however, denied widely publicized charges by the Rev. Amos B. Bogart of Battle Creek that gaming had been permitted to flourish under the state administration.

The minister, in a letter to the governor last week, threatened to institute recall proceedings unless steps were taken to halt gambling. Last night, however, after calling the governor on the telephone, Mr. Bogart announced his satisfaction with Fitzgerald's enforcement command. But he promised "another crack-down" if the orders went unheeded.

Cooperatives Sponsor Employees' Institute

About 30 cooperatives in this section of the state are sponsoring a 5-day institute for their employees at the Appleton Vocational school. The institute opened yesterday and will continue through Friday.

Problems in management, merchandising and financing are being taken up at the institute with instructors of the Midland Cooperative Wholesale association in charge. Arrangements for the institute were made by Fitzgerald's Cooperative Oil association. About 25 persons attended the institute yesterday.

Salvation Army Launches Drive For Funds Today

'Kick-Off' Dinner Held Last Night to Assign Territories

The Salvation Army launched its annual appeal for funds to carry on its work in 1939 at a 'kick-off' dinner last night at the Army Temple. About 70 workers and leaders attended the dinner and were assigned to definite territories.

The quota this year has been set at $11,000 and the Army workers are appealing for doubled donations to raise the amount. Part of the money collected, $7,000 will go to pay off the Army's building fund. Many of the territories assigned were made smaller last night so that workers may concentrate on a fewer number of donors. The first report of results obtained will be made at a luncheon for workers Wednesday noon at the Army Temple.

The Rev. G. H. Blum reported at last night's meeting that sentiment in favor of the Army's drive is higher this year than usual. A similar report was made by Mrs. Clara McGowan, women's division chairman.

The industrial division under the guidance of Forrest Muck, H. L. Davis, Jr., Ross E. Williams and George E. Johnson reported that five industrial groups are making donations up among employees. William L. Crow is general chairman for the drive.

Milwaukee Woman Tells Class About Collection Methods

"Collection Tools and Methods" was the subject of the lecture given by Miss Dorothy Kennedy of Schuster's department store in Milwaukee at the fifth session of the Appleton retail credit school Monday evening at the Appleton Vocational school. Miss Kennedy outlined the methods used in collections, read letters to illustrate the methods and gave the results obtained from various types of collections. An open discussion followed her lecture.

The credit school is sponsored by the Appleton Credit Exchange and the Appleton Vocational school. Next Monday evening L. G. Frei, manager of the Household Finance corporation, will discuss collectors and outside agencies.

Michigan Looking for Penologist to Become State Prison Warden

Lansing, Mich. — (P)—Governor Fitzgerald renewed today his hunt for a Michigan man—an experienced penologist—for the highest salaried post under the jurisdiction of the civil service department, the wardenship of the southern Michigan prison.

The governor made it clear that the selection of a successor for Warden Joel R. Moore, resigned, would be subject to no civil service ruling and promised to supervise the job personally, although the appointment rests with the corrections commission, which may receive suggestions from Hilmer Gelien, corrections director.

Fitzgerald said he would confer with Gelien and the corrections commission when Walter F. Gries of Ishpeming, former warden of the branch prison at Marquette, definitely rejected the southern Michigan post. He had been the governor's No. 1 choice.

Source close to the governor suggested the possibility the appointment might go to E. J. Oswald of Crystal Falls or Glenn Carpenter, once employed in the southern Michigan prison.

Baldwin, Wealthy Head Of Trust Firm, Is Dead

New York — (P)—Leroy W. Baldwin, 73, a financier who was reported to enjoy one of the largest incomes in the nation, died last night in Harkness Pavilion after an operation.

Baldwin founded the Empire Trust company in 1901 and served as its president until his death. No official estimate of his wealth was ever made public, but Baldwin paid $225,000 cash for his town home in October, 1927, and last July the treasury ordered a refund of $135,000 as over-payment on his 1933 income taxes.

He was survived by his widow, the former Miss Etta L. Field of New York; their daughter, Mrs. George W. Harris; two brothers, W. B. Baldwin, vice president of the Empire Trust company, and Charles Baldwin of Montpelier, Vt., and a sister, Mrs. Frank C. Dunn of Rutland.

Alien Smuggling Aired at House Committee Quiz

said, "and that figure has now dropped to about 8,000."

When rules committee members questioned why the labor department was not coping with the alien smuggling problem, Congressman Cox (D-Ga.) interposed:

"You don't expect any real effort on the part of that department to enforce the immigration laws, do you?"

At another point, the Georgian declared the labor department was the "worst rascal-house in the nation."

The rules committee deferred action on Dickstein's request until later in the day.

While that committee was discussing the immigration legislation three members of the house judiciary committee said the latter group was ready to vote "almost unanimously" to exonerate Secretary Perkins.

Charges involving the labor department's enforcement of the immigration laws.

May Vote Thursday

They told newsmen privately that the committee might reach a formal vote Thursday on a motion to ask the house to drop the accusations, filed by Congressman Thomas (R-N.J.).

At a congressional-executive monopoly committee hearing, Prof. Frank A. Factors of Princeton university said that if the committee did not solve the economic problem of "basing point" prices, it would "largely have failed" in its objectives.

Under the system, one or more "basing points" are set up and buyers of heavy materials, such as steel, pay the cost of freight from the basing point to the place of delivery, regardless of the location of the factory. As a result, any geographic factors that might otherwise enter into delivered prices are eliminated.

U. of W. Regents Vote Four Honorary Degrees

Madison — (P)—University of Wisconsin regents voted today to award honorary degrees at the 1939 commencement to four men, all natives of Wisconsin and three of them graduates of the university, who have attained outstanding success in government, engineering and news dissemination.

Those to be honored and the degrees to be awarded are:

Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the United States social security board, doctor of laws.

Daniel H. Hoan, Milwaukee mayor, doctor of laws.

Hans V. Kaltenborn, newspaper man and radio commentator, doctor of laws.

ARTHROSIS

ARTHROSIS and RHEUMATISM

Arthritis can be cured and deformity can be prevented, yet disability from Arthritis and Rheumatism is greater than from any other disease. The National Health Survey reports 6,850,000 cases of rheumatism a year in this country.

Some causes are pressure on nerves to joints, to kidneys, to bowels and to skin, poor posture, injuries to the body.

Modern Chiropractic treatment acts as a constitutional treatment, building up the function of weak organs, increasing the elimination of poisons from bowels, skin and kidneys. Chiropractic tones up the natural healing agencies which are in the body already. With the correct treatment, the outlook is optimistic for the victims of arthritis and rheumatism. Do not neglect these conditions, but try Chiropractic at once.

Council to Hear Board Report on Relief Work Plan

Aldermen Also Expected To Debate Proposed Police Car Purchase

Kaukauna—The city's councilmen are in for a busy session at 7 o'clock tonight in the municipal building with several matters laid over from the Feb. 28 meeting on the slate. Aldermen will debate the purchase of a police car and hear recommendations of the board of public works in regard to a project whereby men on relief and borderline cases may work out part of their allotments. The board also will report on its meeting last night, and city officials give reports for the month of February.

The fire and police committee met last night with the fire and police commission to discuss the police car purchase, and are expected to make a recommendation to the council tonight. On a former occasion the commission recommended against purchase.

At the last session a petition asking that certain south side streets be widened to 50 feet, eliminating curbs, with WPA labor, was referred to the board of works, which may bring in a recommendation tonight. Streets named were the corner of Seventh and Hendricks avenue to Reaume avenue, and Reaume avenue to Fifth street. There were ten signers.

May Act on Loan

Harry F. McAndrews, city attorney, has been instructed to start the necessary papers through the council preliminary to the borrowing of $100,000. Relief bonds will be issued. Originally it was planned to wait until summer before selling this issue, but Alderman T. L. Seggelink, chairman of the finance committee, recommended an earlier flotation, and Mayor Lewis F. Nelson supported him, stating any number of events might upset the market and prevent a low rate of interest. Seggelink has prophesied that the new loan will be obtained at not more than 2 1/2 per cent interest.

When this financing is finished the city will be in a favorable position, Nelson told the council last night. All of the city's obligations will be out under the lowest possible interest rates, Nelson said.

Mrs. William Deasy Dies Monday Morning

Kaukauna—Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. William Deasy, 618 W. Garfield boulevard, Chicago, who died at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Mrs. Deasy attended grade and high schools in Kaukauna, moving to Chicago after she was married here. Survivors are the husband, her father, Aaron Panabaker, Kaukauna; one brother, William Ellis, Milwaukee; two sisters, Mrs. George Zimmerman and Miss Jean Panabaker, Kaukauna. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Panabaker home, 301 Quinney avenue, with the Rev. L. F. Green in charge. Burial will be in Union cemetery. The body will be at the home from Wednesday evening to the time of the funeral.

Hubert Niesen Rites To Be Held Thursday

Kaukauna—Funeral services for Hubert Niesen, 68, who died Sunday in Milwaukee, will be held at 8:30 Thursday morning at the home of his son, John, 411 W. Wisconsin avenue, and at 9 o'clock at Holy Cross church, with the Rev. A. Garthaus in charge. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Postal Receipts Show Gain Over Last Year

Kaukauna—Postal receipts for February of this year showed an increase of $200 over receipts for the corresponding period in 1938, according to R. H. McCarty, postmaster. Receipts were $1,992.79 last month and $1,785.76 in 1938.

Kaukauna Cagers Drill for Class B District Tourney

Waupaca Will be First Opponent of Little's Team at Menasha

Kaukauna—Having finished their season with a record of six wins and seven losses Kaukauna High school cagers are now drilling in preparation for the Class B district cage tourney beginning Wednesday at Menasha.

The Kaws' first opponent will be Waupaca at 8:30 Thursday evening. If victorious Kaukauna moves on to play the winner of the Menasha-West De Pere game at 9:30 Thursday night. A win in this contest would place the Littlemen in the finals. The Kaws seem to have a break in the draw, with New London and Neenah, teams which finished ahead of Kaukauna in conference play, in the other bracket. Kaukauna beat Menasha on the Bluejays' floor, 28 to 18, and lost out in the last 15 seconds here, 23 to 22.

The local cagers should be in top shape for this year's tournament. On the first string, roster are Bill Alger, Carl Giordana, Junior Swedberg, Don Bisek, Paul Koch, Willis Rannette and James Sanders. Of the entire list only Paul Koch was lost by graduation. Koch, who got into only one of the team's first five games tallied 37 points in the last five to become Kaukauna's greatest scoring threat.

Deaths Top Births at Kaukauna in February

Kaukauna—Deaths more than doubled births in Kaukauna during February, 16 to 7, according to the monthly report of Dr. C. D. Boyd, city health officer. There were 3 marriages.

Eleven cases of contagion were reported, six of chicken pox, four of whooping cough and one of scarlet fever.

Royalton Couple Wed Thirty Years

Anniversary Is Celebrated At Home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sheldon

Royalton—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sheldon on Saturday observed their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Sheldon before her marriage was Miss Maud Town, only child of the late Curtis and Mary Platt Town of this village.

Their wedding took place on March 4, 1909, at the home of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles H. Sanders, who was at that time pastor of the Royalton Congregational church. The wedding march was played by Mrs. C. H. Sanders. The bride and groom were attended by Roy Atkins and Miss Mable Brown, now Mrs. Julius Fenske of Green Bay.

Directly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon left for Lind, Washington, where at that time Mr. Sheldon was engaged in livery business. Later they returned to Royalton where they have since resided. They have three sons and two daughters, Curtis, Ralph, Robert, Ruth and Irene.

Despite the severe blizzard on Sunday all the principal highways in Waupaca county were opened by snowplows at an early hour Monday, thus permitting travel for the many milk trucks, rural mail carriers, pupils and teachers.

Alfred Gurnin, Dartball was played after the meeting.

A son was born March 5 to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stutzman of Bonduel. They formerly resided here.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Black Creek State Graded school will meet Tuesday evening.

Ladies Aid Society to Serve Supper Thursday

Medina—The Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church will serve supper Thursday evening. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Della Culbertson, Mrs. Lizzie Ruppel and Miss Adeline Schisser. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ruppel and sons Brenton and Keith, Waukesha, spent Sunday here visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Yankee, Mrs. Robert Wason and Mrs. Alfred Hills visited at the Stanley Perkins home, Oshkosh, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins formerly were Medina residents.

Mrs. Edwin Breyer attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Steffen, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Ray have left for Iowa where Mr. Ray will manage a beauty shop.

Services are Held for Mrs. Elizabeth Steffen

Dale—Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Steffen were conducted at 9:30 Monday morning from the Frank Sell home at Dale and at 10 o'clock from St. Peter and Paul Catholic church, Hortonville. Bearers were three grand sons and three nephews, Norman, Harold and Francis Sell, Lawrence Miller, Walter and Ed Steffen. Out-of-town relatives who attended were: Mrs. Margaret Smith of West Allis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, Joe and John Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Wenzel, Mrs. Anna Schubert, and Mrs. Theresa Koller of Appleton. Mr. and Mrs. Clair Jack of Oshkosh and Mrs. Cora Minton of the Wisconsin Veterans Home.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Instantly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol in concentrated form. A most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

FASCISM IN AMERICA

Life Magazine reports that there are today "over 800 organizations in America devoted to spreading anti-Semitic, anti-democratic, pro-Fascist doctrines throughout the land" and concludes that "public exposure is the best treatment for such festering sores in the body politic."

We presume that some of these 800 organizations are insignificant in size and influence. Some of them certainly are not. Although in our judgment the Fascist organizations are not as bestial as the Communist ones it is certain that they are so far down in the mud that for all American purposes comparing them rises only to the dignity of a sophomore debate.

In the big cities during Prohibition one gangster gang laid for another and sometimes the gangs were massacred outright. At first police smiled about this procedure and so did the public. When a thug had been taken for a one-way ride it seemed that the public was saved the trouble and expense of hunting out this particular criminal and punishing him. In most instances his life had only merited a one way ride anyway. But experience demonstrated very plainly that this sort of bitter destruction instead of improving public standards and morale was dragging the whole structure of government down to a gangster standard. Nor is it at all certain that publicity, powerful remedy though it be, is the only necessary one to expose both Red and Fascist organizations in this country. It would take some legislation in addition, laws that are enacted in total defiance of both Red and Fascist ideas but in complete conformity to the firm fairness of democracy.

Fifteen years ago we had the same problem in a little different shape. The Klan was riding high upon the horses of the Southland. Publicity served America very well upon that occasion. But it was not enough. Legislators figured out, a very sensible law. It was based upon the proposition that most members of this organization would be ashamed to let the public know of their membership. In states where it was enacted it ordered and compelled all these organizations to file with the secretary of state their membership. The law was carefully worded so as not to interfere with and therefore annoy many organizations of a secret, fraternal and wholly lawful purpose. At least in the north this law did its work effectively. The Klan faded as a public instrument of evil and as quickly as a delicate flower before the blasts of a Northeaster.

In relation to these anti-American organizations, and whether Red or Fascist, we need not only publicity but laws to prevent deceit. Such organizations instinctively realize that unless they can befool great groups of people they are lost. While some of them are formed solely for the purpose of obtaining fees and providing juicy jobs for insiders others are born out of the devilry in men, the sadistic inclination to hurt someone else, and, like the devil, seek to shield their hellish purposes by wearing the livery of heaven and shouting patriotic declarations with which no one will take exception if these involved would only apply dispassionately the patriotism they mumble.

Legislators, when they come to write the necessary laws to curb this menace, must set their purpose upon obtaining for the people whose membership and support is sought in these various organizations merely the truth about the men who compose them and the purposes for which they are organized.

It will be necessary that the records of all organizers, officers and the like be given. A noteworthy number have been found the bearers of prison sentences but have been associated with skin games, wildcat stock sales, embezzlements and those other offenses from which men have often been able to buy their way clear by a quick settlement when caught. We want no laws prohibiting these organizations. We are perfectly content to have Fascist organizations and Red organizations so long as they sail under their own colors. The law has a right only to interfere to protect the public from the vile flow of fraud that now persists. Such is the real American rule.

SOME MEXICANS ARE SMART

A Socialist writer traveling over the country in quest of shuddering news discovered in Texas what he described as the worst slum districts in America.

These districts are not like those in our greater cities. Instead of the squalid apartment houses the Texas cities have still more squalid shacks. The shack usually rests upon four posts and underneath will be found a scraggly dog and no end of tin cans. It cannot afford a porch and the four steps that lead up to its entrance are cracked and broken. The woman who administers its affairs is slattern and most untidy. Her hair hasn't seen a comb in a month. Her children are half naked. But behind each of these shacks will be found a Model T Ford which accounts for the heretofore puzzling inquiry concerning what became of them all.

If one were to read the details of this abject situation, even dissociated from the human members who compose it, it would not be easy to repress the determination that "something must be done about it." But when we view so short a distance from these slums the blooming Utopia of Mexico under Marx and see the Model Ts all ready to transport these hundreds of thousands of Mexicans back to the garden of Eden, enthusiasm is likely to subside a bit.

For the Mexicans won't move. They decline to budge. They don't want the garden of Eden. They repulse Utopia. Which makes it all very queer.

Back in Mexico their brethren have taken over nearly all the tilled acres cleared by laborious American effort. Although Mexico has tremendous areas of tangled jungle and valuable forest the Marx crusaders have no stomach for mere land which requires work. They crave land which requires no work, or as little work as possible. What with the Mexican government also taking over oil wells, gold and silver mines, businesses and industries, we would imagine these Mexican patriots living in the shambles of a Texas slum would want to get back and partake of the glories of real liberty and the brotherhood of man, but with all their faults they lived in Mexico too long not to understand the land. So they stay in Texas, hanging onto their Model T Ford and living in the most disreputable slums in the country which rather plainly expresses their opinion of what is going on in Mexico.

In truth the slattern woman with the half naked children, and the scraggly dog living under the falling shack, are immensely better off than the Mexicans even after robbing the Americans of their property.

For the Mexican people were poorer, far poorer, after they grabbed the property of others than they ever were before, and simply because they cannot produce from that property what others could.

Land, even cleared, does not make prosperity or create clean and happy families. Some of the most fertile lands in the world, along the Nile and Irrawaddy, have been capable of producing foodstuffs enough to glut the market through the centuries for people who nevertheless starved.

A nation, like an individual, must have a soul, and though this soul be different from that in man it means as much in differentiating one nation from another as the intellectual and moral intelligence of the ordinary Nordic puts him in a class apart from the caveman, whose knuckles trailed on the ground as he walked.

CHECKS AND BALANCES

For the fifteen decades that America has been plowing the waters of national life men have attempted to put into a few crystallized sentences the tremendous meaning and urgent necessity of those various "checks and balances" of government that our constitution inaugurated purely as a measure of safety for the people.

We have never seen the explanation put into better form than that employed by Chief Justice Hughes at the ceremonies attending the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the creation of our congress.

Said the Chief Justice:
"If our checks and balances of government sometimes prevent the speedy action which is thought desirable, they also assure in the long run a more deliberate judgment. And what the people really want, they generally get. Our rights of assembly, speech, press and religion are the safeguards which have been erected against the abuses threatened by gusts of passion and prejudice which in misguided zeal would destroy the basic interests of democracy."

"We protect the fundamental right of minorities in order to save democracy from government from destroying itself by the excesses of its own power."

The statement, so well and accurately elucidated by the Chief Justice into understandable English, induced from the great assemblage the wild applause which it merited.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

San Francisco—All my life I have been hearing that San Francisco is a place no one should miss seeing, and all my life I have been letting such talk go in one ear and out the other. I hereby confess the error of my ways.

Los Angeles fascinates; San Francisco thrills. Here is Life, and here is Enthusiasm. They happen to be having a Fair out here this year, but the Fair, fine as it is, is only a small part of the attraction. San Francisco is itself an experience, a battery of electric energy that jolts complacency out of any blase easterner who meets it.

Travelling with me from New York in a party was one fellow from New York's Bronx who never had been farther west of the Hudson than Scranton, Pa., in the 49 years of his life. As we streamlined across the continent—Chicago, Kansas City, Santa Fe, Grand Canyon, Los Angeles—I paid close attention to his reactions. For I wondered how one so deeply enmeshed in New York living would respond to the greater America which he did not know.

He was frankly flabbergasted. It wasn't so much the bustle and gaiety of San Francisco that moved him; it was the people themselves. "I have never seen such hail and hearty hospitality," he said. "These people apparently are ready to drop everything just so visitors can have a good time."

We were fortunate to find the city in fiesta mood. The men went around with whiskers growing in strange patterns on their faces, with cowboy suits on and with pistols holstered from their belts. At the slightest provocation—or with no provocation whatever—they whipped out their weapons and banked away, with blanks, into the air.

It was disconcerting at first. I am timid about firearms, and a staunch believer in the theory that the most dangerous pistol of all is the one that "isn't loaded." Nobody has been shot yet, however, so I guess it is all right. Even the women carry guns, and they have fun blazing away.

The whiskers on the men's face, I understand, were a promotional inspiration. The sponsors of the Golden Gate Exposition wanted to inject more enthusiasm into the business, so someone suggested that the menfolk go native for awhile, and the ladies, too. The idea clicked. All men have a secret curiosity to see how they will look with beards, but few have the courage to try it out in public. Here was their chance. Never in history has such a conglomeration of hirsute adornments been seen on men's faces as we have seen here. Chin whiskers, extravagant sideburns, goatees, van dykes, flowing beards, and just plain brushpiles.

The hotels are overflowing. The manager of one told me he turned prospective guests away "by the hundreds" during the opening week of the Exposition, and the same reports came from the other large hostilities, with even the smaller inns having the same happy fortune.

I have seen many crowded drinking places, but I had to come to San Francisco to see men and women form in lines, as at a movie theatre, for admission to a bar. That was at the Empire where the bar and cocktail lounge are located on the 24th floor. The line of people waiting to get in there at 10 o'clock at night extends across the hotel lobby, from the elevators to the street entrance. In the Sky Room itself the crowd is so dense that one wonders why people submit to being packed so tightly together merely to have a cocktail or two.

There is a story connected with the place. Through legal restrictions there could not be a bar located within 150 feet of a church. This meant there couldn't be a bar on the lobby floor of the hotel, so the management got around it by the simple means of going upward for 150 feet and installing the bar there.

Darned clever, these San Franciscans. (Copyright, 1939)

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, March 10, 1914

A searching party spent part of the night in the Center swamp hunting for Howard Miller who had come lost while with his older brother, but the lad found his way out of the woods and returned to his home while the searchers, armed with lanterns, still were seeking him. He was none the worse for his experience.

Karl Schuetter went to Chicago to attend a style show given by the Cutters' club, of which he was a member.

Anton Stadler was completing the razing of the old police station and fire station at the corner of Oneida and Washington streets.

Miss Loren Hecker, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hecker, entertained a group of school mates on her birthday anniversary.

Miss Olive McIntire was host to the Kings Daughters Missionary society of the Methodist church.

Prof. A. A. Trever had been selected to give the annual Memorial day address.

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, March 5, 1929

The county highway commission had just purchased a new tractor for snow removal costing $7,850 and a plow costing $2,200, in spite of the fact that a referendum on whether snow was to be removed from county roads next season was pending before the voters.

Philip Reomer was elected adjutant of J. P. Hawley post of the American legion at Neenah. George Euth was elected senior councillor of United Commercial Travelers. W. H. Babb was named chairman of the "wet" committee.

Elks were meeting soon to consider whether to accept the 1929 state convention which was offered the local lodge.

The council had about decided to abandon its plan of widening Lawrence street from Oneida street east to Durkee street because of opposition from property owners.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Almost every major labor difficulty is expected here to melt like butter in the sun if the President's peace proposal brings the conflict between AFL and CIO to an early end.

In turn, the failure to end it a ready has brought symptoms of the loss of labor may expect to suffer if its long war persists.

Equally to the post-labor analysts assert that neither side can avoid peace efforts without suffering damaging loss of public good will.

First off, both the general public and the administration now seem agreed that business and industry must be given every assistance. One of industry's discouraging elements is labor strife. The administration quite evidently feels that the National Labor Relations act and certain other acts represent a substantial job done for labor. For labor to continue internal wrangling in spite of this leaves the New Deal in a poor way to defend its pro-labor course—and so the president acted.

Once before he publicly scolded a labor faction, but scolded business at the same time by saying "a plague of both your houses" when the General Motors-CIO dispute had hit a new high. In this recent letter to the rival labor leaders, however, the whole scolding, if such it could be termed, was directed at labor.

A Battle of Leaders
The fight has long since degenerated into a battle between leaders—it is not a battle over labor. Each side has made offers which, if accepted by the other, would end most of the discord. But the difficulty lies in finding a means of merging the two groups, and at the same time saving to each a fair portion of power.

AFL has offered to take CIO unions back into the organization they left in 1935. But AFL terms leave AFL leadership in control. In turn CIO has offered to return to AFL if it can retain its organization intact. That would put AFL leaders in a secondary position, by cause membership in industrial organizations appears to outnumber AFL craft membership.

AFL leaders heartily distrust the National Labor Relations board, asserting it has persistently favored CIO organizations. As a result AFL has submitted a whole course of amendments to the act and hearings have been arranged by the Senate Labor committee.

But members of the committee, feeling that peace between the two groups, would end the fight over the act, have already arranged to postpone the hearings provided peace negotiations are started. Some AFL officials have privately conceded that certain of the proposed amendments were "retaliatory" against alleged favoritism of the board toward CIO. These, at any rate would be dropped if the two came to terms.

AFL in Best Spot?
Which side will come victorious out of the proposed negotiations is anybody's guess. Eighteen months ago when they first attempted to end their difference, CIO seemed in the ascendant, having organized big steel, the automobile industry and a number of minor industries, bringing its membership above AFL.

It is likely now that AFL's position is the better. David Dubinsky's garment workers have withdrawn from CIO in protest at CIO refusal to come to terms with AFL. Moreover, the Supreme Court emphatically condemned the sit-down strike, one of CIO's principal weapons a year or so ago.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION
Editor Post-Crescent—During the past years of state administration in Madison, it has been my practice to appoint men on the State Conservation commission who have been active in conservation work in the state, but it seems that in the present regime all that counts is how much "pull" one has, or to what party one belongs.

At the present time there are two bills before the legislature at Madison to abolish the conservation commission and make it a political set up for party "spend-thrifts" only.

When a governing body so important as the conservation commission is to be made over into a group of politicians for patronage purposes only—it is time that all sport loving men and women get up and do something about it.

Another one of the "wet" ideas of our intelligent governing body was to raise the amount of the state hunting license, and state fishing license, but to lower the out of state license to encourage out of state spenders to come here and fish out of the streams and lakes that we have so carefully cultivated and preserved.

Very recently an appointment was made on the commission, but was given to a man who's integrity and constructive ideas have been carefully planned for years, and who has spent considerable time and money for furthering conservation, and who has had actual work in all phases of conservation. No, it was given to a man who had a little "pull" at Madison, because some immediate member

THE DISCOVERY THAT CAME TOO LATE

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Somebody ought to tell the people who are responsible for the organized flood of petitions which are rolling into legislative halls in unending waves that their efforts are largely wasted. An average petition to the member of the Wisconsin legislature means only that somebody interested in a particular piece of legislation has canvassed his neighbors and obtained their signatures on something they didn't understand very well, and didn't care about anyway.

The painter's license repeal bill is a case in point. Day after day petitions containing thousands of names poured into the capitol, until clerks grew weary. One morning the introduction of the petitions, a routine formality in which the bundles are handed to the clerk, recorded in the house journal, and then pigeon-holed, required a full hour. If there was any reaction among the legislators receiving them, it was boredom.

If anybody wants to influence his representative in the senate or assembly, a personal letter will do more than a bushel of petitions. One of the circumstances in state politics since Julius Heil's ascension to the head of the state government of his family belongs to the right party.

Time for action has come when a man, who knows little or nothing about conservation, can get an important position simply because he has more political pull at the state capitol than any of his fellow men. If man has devoted all his spare time, and spent considerable amounts of his own money, to better conservation conditions in the state he must know a little about conservation, and when an opportunity presents itself in which he knows he will be able to do more towards helping the conservation department with the help of all conservation clubs it would be the logical thing to give this man the position, but it seems that even though he has done more work for conservation than any of his opponents he is not eligible for the position simply because he is not in sympathy with the correct party.

If we, as sportsmen, are going to better conditions in the state conservation commission it is up to the people to see that a change is made, and to see to it that a man who knows something about conservation is helping make and pass our laws—regardless of party connections, and not one who is little closer to the "big man" and whose activities have been very limited in the betterment and welfare of conservation.

It is the work of all our sportsmen's clubs, and all the time and money we have invested in our work to be simply passed over like a "dirty shirt" and are we to be frustrated in our attempts to create a better commission simply because the party in power has to create patronage jobs for its supporters?

And so my dear readers, I leave this question to you. Do you think a party politics should be granted this much power in our conservation commission, and what should you and I do about it?

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

RAVAGERS OF YOUTH

It was ten years ago that we read of the last real struggle between parents and school principal over the question of a girl attending school in the dress and makeup of a burlesque performer. Popular indifference betrayed the principal. The question no longer comes to open controversy.

Good hygiene, conservation of health, prolongation of youth, life extension, happiness or joy of living, in short VITE is my only concern. I believe in and advocate nudity (not nudism) for every one, as far as one can practice it comfortably and without offending common custom. I derive as much solace from my flock of pipes and assortment of fuels as any old geezer ever did. If you prefer a cigar or a cigarette, help yourself to one. I would prescribe a limited amount of alcohol—as much as can be oxidized or burned in the average metabolism—for most crab, cantankerous, peevish, gloomy, sour-puss, hard-to-live-with old people.

If a woman can make herself more pleasing, more beautiful with make-up of any kind, it is her duty to use make-up for that purpose. Of course she would exercise intelligence in the choice of cosmetics, avoiding cosmetic nostrums which are dangerous or poisonous; and she must apply make-up with artistic restraint—far better unadorned than bedecked like a character in the funnies.

Once in a special while, when the gal feels in the mood, it is all right for her to wear stiffs, the highest and most ridiculous French heels she can strut in, to out-west Mae West, provided she gives her feet a fair break by going barefoot or in two months ago is the impatience of normally conservative and Republican interests with the methods of the new executive, and his delay in revealing what his administration will do.

To illustrate: A Milwaukee newspaper which fancied itself as the originator, almost, of the 1938 Coalition movement, and which certainly was its best friend during the first discouraging months of that effort, has to date been Heil's harshest, and most forward critic. That in spite of the fact that the paper never belied its anxiety to defeat the LaFollette forces.

Another instance: The publisher of a conservative Madison newspaper, always highly regarded in the Republican party and formerly an intimate and consultant of several Republican governors, tells friends with no attempt at secrecy that he has not yet called on Heil, and does not intend to. This Republican spokesman was particularly wrought over Heil's somewhat indelicate announcement of his plans to "kick out" Col. Hannan a few days ago.

GIVE US TIME
Republican politicians are watching this sentiment closely and not without anxiety. The best answer they can give in public is "give us time."

It is true of course that it is unfair to expect any party, and any governor who has never before held public office, to begin breaking records when they do win office at a long last. In this connection Lieut. Gov. Walter S. Goodland in a recent public speech made a significant observation: No state administration should be expected to carry out a program in the short space of two years. Four years would be more reasonable, and six the ideal time to bring to fruition a legislative and political program.

State Budget to Be Higher Than Heil's Estimate

Committee Sources Report It Will Exceed $66,750,000

Madison — Finance committee sources said the state budget to be submitted to the legislature within the next two weeks will be higher than the $66,750,000 figure recommended by Governor Heil.

These sources indicated the budget bill will raise the recommended appropriations for the University of Wisconsin, the penal and charitable institutions, the normal schools, and common and secondary schools, but the amounts are uncertain.

For these departments the governor proposed reductions under the sums they received for the 1937-38 budget.

The finance committee has set aside part of its hearing schedule for executive sessions and may have further conferences with school officials. Some members reported sentiment to restore the entire $793,740 cut in the budget of the state teachers colleges as recommended by the governor.

With the exception of educational appropriations it was reported the committee has settled most all budget items on the basis of the governor's suggestions.

The reduction which had been proposed for the university during the next two years was $1,045,000. The department of public instruction, which supervises elementary and high school aids, was to have received $469,000 less than it had under the last budget.

While the board of control has asked $17,000,000 for the state institutions, including substantial sums for buildings, its recommended appropriation was $7,502,000, or about $10,000,000 under the current operating level.

The future of this department is uncertain because of pending legislation to reorganize it and consolidate all penal, correctional, pension, relief and other charitable activities in a single department of public welfare.

Reorganization Aims
Proposals for the reorganization of other departments also go hand in hand with budget making and may delay action on the general appropriation bill after it reaches the legislature.

Heil's aides have been holding conferences recently on a plan to create a new state motor vehicle division which would embrace all of the forms of licensing now required of automobile and truck owners.

Licensing and other regulatory functions at present are divided among the officers of the secretary of state, public service commission, the industrial commission, and the highway commission.

A bill introduced by title only contemplates a single department in which motor and truck owners could go. It is in line with tentative plans of administration leaders in the legislature to create departmental directorships which can be charged with administrative duties. In some departments, such as agriculture and welfare, the directors would have the advice and supervision of part time policy boards.

12 Plainview School Pupils on Honor Roll

Twelve pupils of the Plainview school, town of Seymour, were on the A honor roll for the last six weeks, according to Miss Catherine Van Wyke, teacher. They are Gladys Vander Veldon, Rosemary Haase, Gloria Lembecke, Teddy Haase, Norman Platten, Lawrence Haase, June Linsmeyer, Shirley Lembecke, Paul Ashman, Erna Noe, Doris Haril and Josephine Vande Carput.

Pupils on the B honor roll were Francis Platten, Dorothy Landwehr, Gerald Vander Veldon, Eugene Platten, Harriet Alberts, Elaine Lembecke, Carl Eisenrich, Vernon Platten, Bernardine Alberts, Dorothy Vande Carput and Eldon Alberts.

All pupils have completed their reading circle work. Those neither absent nor tardy during the period were Rosemary Haase, Francis Platten, Harriet Alberts, Eldon Alberts and Bernardine Alberts.

Pupils Make Sandtable

On Netherlands Study
Students of the third and fourth grade geography classes at the Forest school, Black Creek, completed their study of the Netherlands with a sandtable project of a Holland scene. A product map was made by the fifth grade geography class in connection with a study of the United States. Original puppet shows also have been worked out.

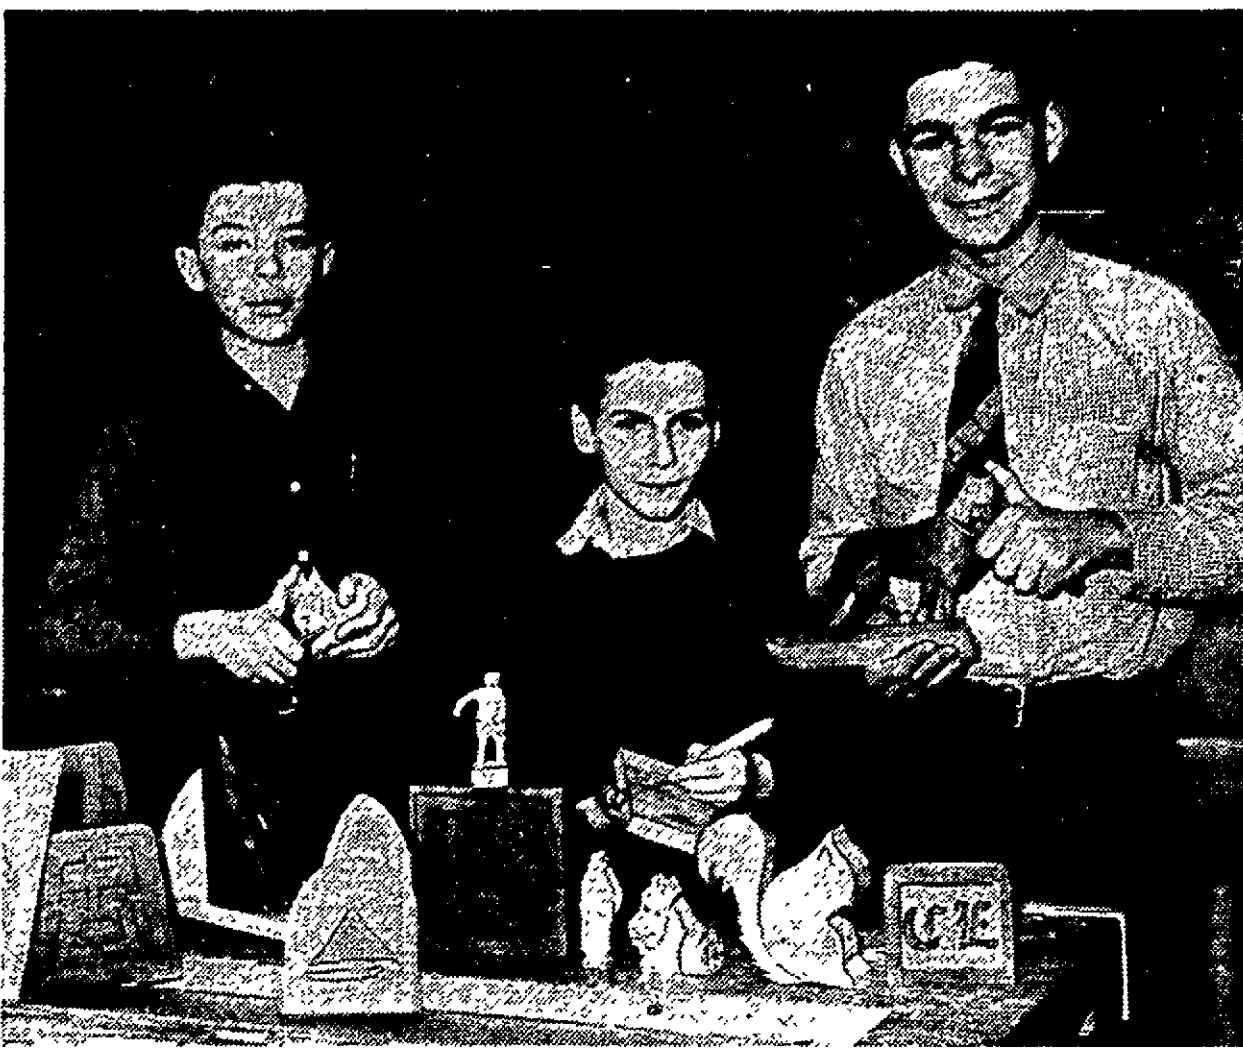

Gene Schuh, Elfrida Krenz, Donald Rohm and Eldora Krenz were on the A honor roll for the last six weeks. On the B honor roll were Roy Wichmann, Joan Wolff, Mildred Krueger and Joyce Stark. Pupils with perfect attendance records for the period were Vernon Schuh, Gerald Rohm, Dorothy Presteen, Eugene Schuh, Donald Rohm and Roy Wichmann.

Pegler Offers Some Ideas on Mayor Kelly's Trip to Miami

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York — Ed Kelly, mayor of Chicago, just renominated by the Democrats, is visiting Miami on a double mission—to rest from the care of office and to dedicate a plaque to his martyred predecessor, Tony Cermak. Miami is the regular winter resting place of mayors and underworld leaders of Chicago, and Mr. Cermak was away on one of his frequent resting trips when he was martyred. He was almost a chain reater, his vacations sometimes being separated only by nominal interruptions for affairs of state.

Considering that which happened to Mr. Cermak and how, a superstitious man in the place of Mr. Kelly might prefer to remain on the job, which pays the not contemptible wage of $15,000 a year, with no deductions for tardiness or days absent, and all immune to the federal income tax and free of a state tax, of which Illinois has none. But the office of Mayor of Chicago and Jersey City, while they might seem simpler, are much more exhausting than the same office in New York. Mr. La Guardia stays on the job the year around with the exception of a few hurried political trips looking toward the presidency and official missions to Washington. Mr. Hague, the millionaire mayor of Jersey City, who amassed vast wealth by humble frugality on a salary of $8,000 a year, finds it necessary to rest frequently at Palm Beach or in Europe. And Chicago mayors avoid mental and physical breakdown only by dragging themselves away from it all for long periods.

Perhaps Mr. La Guardia is just killing himself. Kelly and Hague are not and Tony Cermak wasn't aiming to. The duality of the Chicago of homes and citizens and the underworld Chicago of gamblers, grafters and racketeers long has imposed a dual office on the mayors. Of course a mayor could announce that he was mayor of the official Chicago only and recognize the existence of no other Chicago. But it hasn't been done, and when the underworld moved its winter capital to Miami back in the days of prohibition and prosperity the city government followed. That is why Mr. Cermak was a familiar figure here. He came down to maintain relations between his government and the men who operated the rackets in Chicago, and there has been no sharp break with tradition and custom since Mr. Kelly became mayor. So one assumes that his present trip to Miami is not intended solely as a rest.

Intention of Plaque
But intention of the plaque to Tony Cermak is not quite clear. Obviously, if it is to acknowledge his services to the people of Chicago, then Chicago is the place for it and Miami is presumptuous. The people of Chicago know better than the people of Miami what sort of mayor Tony Cermak was, and if they have refrained from erecting monuments to him that was no mere negligence, but a positive comment on Tony Cermak by an informed people.

Is Not Quite Clear
Is the plaque intended to honor Tony's unintentional interception of the bullets which were meant for Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president-elect? If so, why drag down a trainload of Chicago office-holders to witness the rite? Why erect a plaque at all? A man doesn't get a plaque for accidental death, and nobody has been heard to assert that Tony stepped in front of those bullets purposely. He was, in fact, trying to grab Mr. Roosevelt's ear for a few words on behalf of deserving Democrats and other Chicago racketeers and possibly finding Mr. Roosevelt slightly deaf, considering that Tony just barely caught the billboard of the bandwagon in the convention not so many months before.

Perhaps to Arrange Election Cooperation
It is not more likely, considering known facts, established custom and the moral tone of Chicago politics, that this mission combines against the official government and representatives of the underworld and

Gas Rate Revision In Seven Counties Is Given Approval

Madison — The public service commission authorized the Wisconsin Public Service Corporation Monday to revise its rates for gas service, effecting a saving of about $40,000 a year for customers in Sheboygan, Calumet, Winnebago, Brown, Portage, Manitowoc and Marinette counties.

Some customers, however, will receive slightly higher bills because of adoption of a form which makes unit charges for gas less after a certain amount has been used, the commission said. The maximum increase per bill will be 14 cents.

"Bills increased more than 10 cents per month amount to only 6.5 per cent of the total," the commission said.

The utility said some customers had been served at less than cost. Communities affected and annual savings: Sheboygan $6,800; Sheboygan Falls $135; Kohler $200; Plymouth $420; Kiel $370; New Holstein $285; Chilton $345; Two Rivers $2,750; Oshkosh $6,620; Green Bay and De Pere $10,200; Stevens Point $10,950; Peshtigo $235; Elkhardt Lake, Gravesville and other communities $250.

The utility said some customers had been served at less than cost.

Waltonians Will Sell Stamps of Wild Life

National Wild Life week will be observed from March 19 to 26 by the Appleton chapter of the Izaak Walton league through the sale of conservation stamps. Proceeds from the sale of stamps will be used toward the restoration and conservation of wild life and lands. A group of youths will be appointed mainly in the school to assist in the stamp sale.

Bock Beer Will Be On Market Next Week

The sign of the ram, indicating Bock beer is for sale, will be posted in taverns in Appleton and vicinity probably next week, brewers reported today. Bock beer usually is placed on the market about Easter time but in the last few years has been sold as early as March 17, St. Patrick's day.

City Clerk Will Take Affidavits For Registration

Ballots Available for Voters Who are Unable to Come to Polls

Citizens who failed to register for the primary election before the deadline Saturday now must furnish an affidavit, signed by two freeholders from the ward in which they live, before they can vote March 14, according to Carl J. Becher, city clerk.

Affidavits of non-registered citizens will be accepted by the city clerk during regular office hours and including election day. When the signed affidavit is presented to the clerk, he will give the voter a certificate which must be presented by the voter at the ward polling place.

Ballots of absentee voters must be mailed to the city clerk so that they will reach him not later than election day. The procedure used for absentee voting applies to registered voters who will be out of the city or unable to go to a polling place on March 15.

An application for a ballot must be filled out, signed by a notary public and returned to the city clerk. On receipt of the application, absentee ballots will be returned. When the ballots are received by the voter, they must be marked in the presence of a notary public and returned to the city clerk.

Revision of polling lists for Appleton's 18 new wards was started Monday by the city clerk's staff. Copies of the lists will be given to election boards in the various wards for checking.

Veterans May Apply For Entrance in CCC

Veterans' applications for entry into CCC camps are being taken by Edward Lutz, Outagamie county service officer, until Thursday, April 6, when the next enrollment will be taken. No applications are on file at the present time. Eleven veterans from the county are in CCC camps at the present time, Lutz said.

No visiting at the veterans hospital at Milwaukee is being permitted at the present time because of the prevalence of influenza, Lutz said today.

State Marriage and Divorce Pace Slows Up During Last Year

Madison — Marriages and divorces both declined in Wisconsin during 1938 as compared with the previous year, the state board of health reported today.

However, the rate of tying and untieing marital knots was above the average of the past six years. In 1938 there were 20,713 marriages and 3,605 divorces.

June as usual was the most popular month for weddings and March least popular.

The three leading counties for marriages were: Milwaukee, 5,347; Dane, 444, and Brown, 697.

The divorce total was the lowest in three years and was distributed among leading counties as follows: Milwaukee, 942; Dane, 235; Dodge, 187; Waukesha, 176; Rock, 143, and Washington 129. Florence Marquette and Pepin counties had but one divorce each.

Taxicabs Stay Under Local Jurisdiction

Madison — The public service commission reiterated Monday a 1934 order placing taxicabs and their operation and franchises under local jurisdiction.

The commission advised Green Bay city officials that a subsequent law in 1937 definitely excluded taxicabs from its jurisdiction. Pending in the legislature is a bill to subject taxicabs to commission regulation under the motor transportation law, the commission said.

Goofy Goings-on in News Events During Last Week

BY GLADWIN HILL
New York — A girl's moustache, a seasick sailor, Mae West, and a sixteenth marriage were some of the stars in last week's goofy goings-on.

A Chicago man climbed up 30 feet to draw a moustache on a girl in an advertising sign. . . . Massachusetts coast guardsmen, called to help a sailor in distress, found his trouble was seasickness. . . .

A Harvard freshman ate a live goldfish for $10. . . . The United States treasury advised people not to pay more than 5 cents for a nickel. . . . A Cleveland man wrote to New Mexico to find out if they had a city down there named Santa Fe. . . .

Mae West said she was in favor of censorship. . . . A Missouri man said "milk" too loudly and his dog went out and brought the cows home. . . . The governor of New Jersey issued a proclamation ordering a state senator to stay in bed. . . .

A fist fight broke up a session of the Dutch parliament and a row in the Oklahoma legislature was ended by a five-minute songfest. . . . Some Illinois WPA workers found a pot of gold. . . . A Connecticut scientist announced that the egg came before the hen. . . .

"Jesse James"
A Baltimore man found a pearl in an oyster. . . . Jesse Jones inadvertently introduced himself at a senate hearing as "Jesse James." . . .

The Latvian government started a campaign against kissing. . . . When a California minister asked if there was any reason why the couple should not be wed, somebody announced "the house is on fire." . . . A California chamber of commerce chairman asked if there was any new business to discuss, and a holdup man said "yes" and collected $50. . . .

Coatesville, Pa., police were forbidden to chew tobacco, but Philadelphia police were authorized to if it didn't show. . . . A Denver man persuaded his girl to marry him by advertising he's married somebody else. . . .

An Ohio man and woman who, between them, had been married 15 times, married each other for the second time. . . . A Maryland judge sentenced another judge who had sentenced him two months before. . . .

Finance Minister Sotaro Ishawata was asked: "Is Japan formulating her budgets with an eye to the military preparations of the Soviet union?" . . .

The minister replied: "The new situation of the Soviet union is being taken into consideration." . . .

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "building" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders. You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Judge Advocates School Course to Help Limit Crime

Luchsinger Urges Children be Taught Penalties of Wrongdoing

Neenah—S. J. Luchsinger, judge of municipal court as well as of juvenile court of Winnebago county, advocated a high school course which will impress on youths the penalties of criminal behavior in a talk at the Monday noon meeting of the Neenah club.

The judge cited instances to show that many educated persons are tempted into crime in hopes of making one quick profit with the intention of "going straight" after that. He urged that the course must indelibly impress on the children what it means to violate the law, to get away with something.

"Crime always is detected. There is no successful criminal," the judge declared. He went on to point out that no number of correct steps will obviate one mistake and urged that children be impressed with the consequences of wrong-doing when they are in high school, a time when their character is being molded.

"Most criminals realize they are doing wrong but think they can get away with it," the speaker declared.

Would Save Money
"Too much of the work is being left to the school, church and home and while many parents are able to care for their children financially they are unable to give them that necessary training," the judge stated. He recommended that the course be taught by an expert and declared that prevention of crimes would save millions of dollars above the costs of the courts.

The judge pointed out that in his juvenile court work only one boy has been brought in who was a member of the Boy Scouts of America. That had was not guilty of a bad offense but had been drawn into wrong-doing by older boys. The judge declared that it was the education of the boy scouts which keeps them from being criminals.

He stated that many corporations refuse to hire employees who have been convicted of an offense, even in juvenile court.

"There are many potential criminals," the judge declared and then went on to cite the number of laws which have been passed to protect the public from fraud. He also pointed out that many of the criminals are from the better class of society, the educated people.

Among the laws cited by the judge which have been passed to protect the public from fraud are the ordinances regulating weights and measures, the dairy and food commission of the state, the federal pure food laws, the bank examiners act, the securities and exchange act and the law forbidding use of the mails to defraud.

While most businessmen and manufacturers are honest and honorable, there are some who are dishonest and the public must be protected. The judge cited the tendency to manufacturers to package their goods, even oil, to prevent fraud. He declared that an investigation before motor oil was sold in cans showed that in 40 sales the purchaser was defrauded 20 times.

The pure food laws protect the consumer from adulterants but the government is behind in the prosecution of offenders. He cited the need of a law which would make it a crime for anyone who is conducting the fraud in foods and cosmetics.

The judge read a newspaper clipping which told of 28 persons being sentenced for using the mails to defraud. That particular organization was a correspondence school which had defrauded 7,000 students from the Midwest. The judge emphasized the point that educated men must have planned that fraud as well as bank frauds and security swindles, men who hoped to take a quick chance to make a fortune. He then went on to offer his suggestion for prevention of crime.

Drop 50 Aliens From County WPA Pay Roll
Neenah—About 50 persons have been removed from the WPA rolls of Winnebago county because of the recent regulation requiring the elimination of all workers who are not full-fledged citizens. Of the group removed about 35 were from Oshkosh while the rest were from the county at large.

The men removed from the rolls will be replaced by others. About one worker in 30 was not a full-fledged citizen. Current employment figures show about 400 workers in the county at large on WPA and about 1,100 in Oshkosh for a total of 1,500 for the entire county.

Realty Transfers
Oshkosh—The following real estate transfers were filed in the office of George B. Yeuna, Winnebago county register of deeds: Frances Zeimann to Harold Hanson, one lot, Fourth ward, Neenah; George J. Mayer to the Neenah Lumber company, two lots, Fourth ward, Neenah; and Otto Paezel to Charles G. Larson, one lot in the First ward, city of Neenah.

Informal, Neighborly Calls Become Lost Art, Variety of Factors Blamed for Change

BY CHARLOTTE MCINTYRE
Neenah—The Post-Crescent went a-calling last week, not in the sense that it does each evening in over 17,000 homes, but calling to determine what had become of the art of calling. We found that it was lost. Some persons went so far as to declare that it was dead, defunct, buried and had been for about 10 years.

A chance remark heard expressed by a group of young married women at a recent club meeting, "people don't go calling anymore. I wish they did," led the Post-Crescent to go calling to find out if it was really a lost art.

Many persons in Neenah and Menasha have gone calling on newly married couples or on strangers in the city but only found discouragement and disappointment. The calls were never returned.

No longer do people have "at homes," no longer do they "drop in" for an evening call, no longer do they carry calling cards to leave at homes visited. To most of the younger people calling cards are these little white cards one has his name printed upon at graduation time to enclose with a commencement invitation.

We found that while the art of calling was lost or dead, most people would like very much to find it again or revive it but declare it needs cooperation.

"You wouldn't find anyone home if you did," go calling," declared one prominent Neenah church woman. "People are too busy with so much outside foolishness of no account that they haven't time to go calling or to receive callers. There seems to be lack of friendliness; people don't even care about coming 'half-way' in meeting friendly overtures, and yet, it is surprising how appreciative strangers and newcomers are to one's greeting when in church or visiting them in their homes, but it doesn't last."

Cliques Are Blamed
A Menasha club woman expressed the opinion that people belong to too many organizations now, that cliques, small class groups, have been built up, with the result people have lost interest in other people except within their particular chosen group. "People don't even know their next door neighbors today and apparently they don't care to because their interests only lie with their selected

The indictment against cliques and small chosen groups was general among the persons contacted in Neenah and Menasha.

Another Menasha woman active in many organizations believes that the telephone has been the primary cause for calling becoming a lost art. "People talk via the telephone nowadays and visit for hours but I enjoy meeting people and visiting them and wish that calling would be revived," she told us.

"We miss a lot by abandoning the old-fashioned calling idea," said another Neenah woman. "We have allowed ourselves to get tied up with bridge clubs, organizations and other groups and the people not inclined to find fellowship in group meetings, miss very much. You get to know persons when you can go into their homes and visit with them. Much of a person's personality is reflected within the home."

"Indeed a Lost Art"
"No, people don't call anymore unless they are invited for a specific time and for some entertainment... a dinner, Sunday evening supper, card party. The simple, homey calling on friends during the afternoon or together with your husband in the evening is indeed a lost art and it's too bad. We don't get to know people," said another.

A Menasha clergyman believes that commercialized amusements and the radio have been part of the cause for the death of the art of calling. "People don't take time to call and know people, even their friends whom they meet within groups. They don't call on individual members of those particular cliques, they don't have them in their homes unless it's for a cocktail party or a bridge party, a dinner. I believe that calling teaches people how to get along with each other and understand each other better.

"In the individual's search for happiness, he seeks too much to attain it through artificial means, parties, clubs, organizations, forgetting that he can find it more readily in the simple, human interest side of people that we come to know by the old homey practice of calling."

Because of the evident interest and favor in calling as it once was known, the adage, "while there's life, there's hope" might be transposed to read "while there's hope, there's life." ... for the lost art of calling.

Chest Clinic to Be Held Thursday, Friday at Neenah

W.A.T.A., City Health Council Will Conduct Examinations

Neenah—A 2-day free chest clinic will be held Thursday and Friday in the city hall auditorium under the sponsorship of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and the Neenah Health council. Plans for the clinic have been made by Dr. George H. Williamson of the health council and Miss Evelyn Scholl, public health nurse. The clinic will be conducted by the W. A. T. A. and will be financed by the two groups with funds raised by sale of penny Christmas seals.

Clinic hours will be from 8:30 in the morning to 4:30 in the afternoon. Children under 16 years of age should be accompanied by an adult, preferably a parent, who can give the examining physician information on the past illnesses of the child and any possible contact he may have had with a tuberculous person.

Children under 6 years of age who have not been exposed to an active case of tuberculosis will not be examined at the clinic. Medical treatment will not be given at the free clinic. When the examination indicates that a person is in need of treatment or further medical advice he will be referred to his family physician.

New Organ Will Be Dedicated Sunoay

Special Service Will Be Held at Menasha Trinity Church

Menasha—Trinity Lutheran church will dedicate its new organ at special services Sunday, March 12, and the Rev. Paul G. Bergmann, pastor, will present a dedicatory message on "The Master Musician of the Soul."

The organ has 18 stops on the swell organ, 14 stops on the great organ and 6 stops on the pedal organ. All the pipes have been reconditioned and revoiced. There are three completely new sets of pipes, the Aeolian, the viol celeste and the flute harmonica. The console is a two manual make. A set of 20 Deagan Tower cathedral chimes for the organ have not been installed as yet but will be ready for the musical part of the Easter sunrise service.

The program for the organ dedication will open with the hymn of invocation, "Come Holy Ghost, God and Lord" on the old organ. Following the exhortation and Psalm and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Bergmann, the dedication of the organ proper will be made after which the first prelude on the new organ will be heard. The choir will sing "I Will Extol Thee" by Rosche after which the sermon will be presented.

The offertory selection will be "Harmonies of Soli" and the benediction and doxology will be marked by the hymn "Now Thank We All Our God."

The organ will be put again to special use prior to Easter Sunday when the accompaniment for the Lutheran Academy of Fond du Lac presents a concert at 7:45 P.M. Sunday evening in Trinity Lutheran church. Martin Albrecht is director. The choir is a mixed organization of 40 voices.

St. Patrick Defeats St. John by 24-12 In Conference Tilt

Neenah—St. Patrick grade school defeated St. John, 24 to 12, victory over the St. John grade school team in a Catholic boys conference tilt Monday afternoon at S. A. Cook armory.

Meyer, lanky Shamrock guard, scored nine points to lead the winners while Hyland tossed in three baskets and Koteski scored five points. For the St. John team, Jansen scored seven points.

The Shamrocks will play St. Theresa at Appleton Wednesday afternoon in a conference game. A week from Friday the Shamrocks will play the league-leading Kimberly grade school team. The Shamrocks are in second place in the league and can tie for first place with a victory over Kimberly.

Menasha Basketball Squad Will Lose Seven Seniors This Year

Menasha—Although seven seniors will be lost from the Menasha high school basketball team this year, the Bluejays will have a large capable squad available next winter when the cage season opens once more.

Seniors on the present squad include Henry Landskron, Harry Zelinske, William Resch, John Kuester, Kenneth DuCharme, Donald Drucks, and William Thomas. The four juniors on the varsity squad are Douglas Anderson, Clarence Zielinski, Wilbur Merkley and Gaylord Thompson.

The squad of 13 is completed with two freshmen, Ray Wipich and Roland O'Brien. The strength of the squad next year probably will come from the strong reserve team which won eight games and lost four this year. Elmer Trader, a freshman, was the leading scorer for the freshmen with 51 points. Richard Landskron, a sophomore, was second high with 38.

Other high scorers of the reserve team included Frank Novak, a junior, 29, Harold Block, sophomore, 28, Harold Block, sophomore, and Kenneth Wolff, junior, 18 points each, and Fred Landskron, sophomore, 11 points.

Neenah—Dr. N. P. Lang, Chicago, will begin a series of four lenten sermons at Our Savior's Lutheran church Thursday evening. Two services will be held Sunday, March 12, at which Dr. Lang will be guest pastor.

The Rev. F. Brandt, Appleton, will be guest preacher at the midweek lenten services, the English service at 7:30 Wednesday and German at 7:30 Thursday, in Trinity Lutheran church.

"The Choice of the Traitor" will be the midweek lenten service at 7:30 Wednesday evening in Immanuel Lutheran church, the Rev. E. C. Kollath conducted the service.

Service Wednesday
Following the general theme of the midweek lenten meditations, "As We Walk with Him," the Rev. W. R. Courtenay, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will conduct meditations on the subject "He Teaches Us the Importance of the Home" at the 7:30 Wednesday evening service.

Midweek Bible and prayer study will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening in First Fundamental church of Neenah. The Rev. W. G. Wittenborn is pastor.

The Rev. Henry Johnson, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, will conduct service at 7:30 Wednesday evening as the first of a series of lenten services begin. A lenten sermon and benediction will mark the Wednesday evening services in St. Margaret Mary Catholic church. Stations of the cross will be held at 7:30 Friday evening.

Prayer Study
Lenten prayer study will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening in Whiting Memorial Baptist church by the Rev. W. L. Harris, pastor.

"The Salvation of Your Souls" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Carl F. Zietlow, pastor, at the 7:30 Wednesday evening lenten service in First Evangelical church.

Continuing with the general theme "Behold the Lamb of God," the Rev. Samuel H. Roth, pastor, will preach on "At Night in Gethsemane" at the third Wednesday lenten service at 7:30 tomorrow evening in St. Paul's English Lutheran church.

Judge Upholds Ruling In Menasha Civil Suit

Menasha—Acting on the motion of the plaintiff's attorney, Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger Monday confirmed a decision rendered in Menasha justice court in the case of John H. Kuester versus Philip K. Vanderhyden.

In the original suit Kuester sued Vanderhyden for $100, alleging that the latter's dog had caused John Kuester, Jr., to fall and break an arm. Ray J. Fink, justice of the peace before whom the civil suit was heard, decided the case in favor of Vanderhyden and ordered the plaintiff to pay costs of $8.90.

Kuester appealed to municipal court, then decided to drop the matter Monday.

C.D.A. Study Club to Discuss Catholic Books and Authors

Menasha — Catholic books and authors will be discussed at the Study Club meeting of Court Al-louez, Twin City Catholic Daughters of America, Thursday evening in the Menasha club following a regular meeting of the Court. Mrs. Adele McGillan will review "The Old Parish" by Hurley and Mrs. Rufus Clough will discuss and display Catholic books for children. Featuring discussion during the evening will be a talk on the Catholic book of the month club which 10 years ago was founded by a small group of laymen, directed by Francis X. Talbot, S.J., who is now editor of the weekly "America." Catholic clergy and laymen of literary ability select the books which are chosen. Among the selections in the last 10 years have been books by G. K. Chesterton, Hilaire Belloc, Sigrid Undset, Willa Cather, Philip Gibbs, R. H. Bruce Lockhart, Abbe Ernest Dimmet, Jacques Maritain, and Johannes Jorgensen.

Group 2 will hold a business meeting at First Congregational church at 7:30 Wednesday evening to complete plans for its supper March 15.

Guild of St. Thomas will meet at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the parish house of St. Thomas Episcopal church. Luncheon will be served at noon.

The Guild of St. Anne will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in the parish house of St. Thomas Episcopal church.

Plans for a style show this month will be completed at the meeting of Group 1 following a 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday in the social hall of First Congregational church. Hostesses will be Mrs. Ralph Longworth and Mrs. M. Schmelein.

Neenah-Menasha King's Daughters will sponsor a silver tea Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. E. Senenbrenner, Nicolet boulevard, during which a display of articles for which orders will be taken is to be held. Mrs. C. W. Spickerman, Mrs. E. J. Aylward and Mrs. Ronald B. Rogers are members of the hostess committee arranging for the tea.

St. Mary's Band Mothers, meeting Monday evening in the school hall, made plans for a game party with home canned goods as prizes at the next meeting of the club. An auction sale, featured Monday's gathering with Mrs. Sophia Malenofsky acting as auctioneer.

The annual installation of officers of the Menasha Women's Benefit association was held Monday evening in the Elks hall with Mrs. Gertrude Voss, Milwaukee, state field director, acting as installing officer and guest speaker. A covered dish supper in charge of Mrs. George Mueller preceded the meeting. Cards were played during the social hour with Mrs. Josephine Beach winning the schafkopf prize and Mrs. Margaret Acker, the whist prize. Plans for a public card party at the next meeting of the club were discussed. Proceeds from the party will be used for the adult and junior associations. Mrs. John Scanlon was named chairman of the card party.

A. W. Schroeder, G. Bahr, Mrs. Frank Laus and Miss Lena Burr won prizes in schafkopf at the Eagles card party Sunday in Eagle hall. The Eagles will sponsor a midweek card party Wednesday evening in the hall.

Wohelo Camp Fire Girls, sponsored by the First Congregational church, are making plans for initiation of eight new members, for a Council Fire at which advance of rank will be announced, and of obse-vance of Girl Scout week March 17. The council fire will be held the latter of March or the first of April. At the club meeting Monday evening in the club rooms in the church, members worked toward rank advancement and played a basketball game. Mrs. H. O. Griffith, Mrs. O. A. Johansen and Mrs. H. O. Badger '5' Widens Intramural Lead

Defeats Illness-Ridden Wildcats, 25-6, at Junior High

JR. HIGH I-M LEAGUE

Badgers	10	3
Greyhounds	8	5
Hyanas	7	6
Lions	6	7
Panthers	5	8
Wildcats	3	10

Menasha—The Badgers added a game to their lead in the Menasha Junior High school intramural basketball tourney Friday when they scored a 25 to 6 victory over the Wildcats. Sickness hampered the Greyhounds who dropped their third game in succession and now can gain no better than a tie for first place. To win that tie the Greyhounds would have to win their two remaining games and the Badgers lose.

Bill Grode counted seven points to start for the Badgers. Loren Hurley was the high point man for the Wildcats. The Greyhounds dropped a 13 to 5 decision to the Lions. Elzer Marx scored seven points for the winners while Robert Pomarance scored four for the Greyhounds.

The Panthers scored a 24 to 18 victory over the Hyenas. Bill Dow scored 16 points for the winners while Buddy Geibel scored eight for the Hyenas.

In games Wednesday afternoon the Wildcats will play the Greyhounds, the Lions will oppose the Panthers and the Badgers will meet the Hyenas who are in third place in the league.

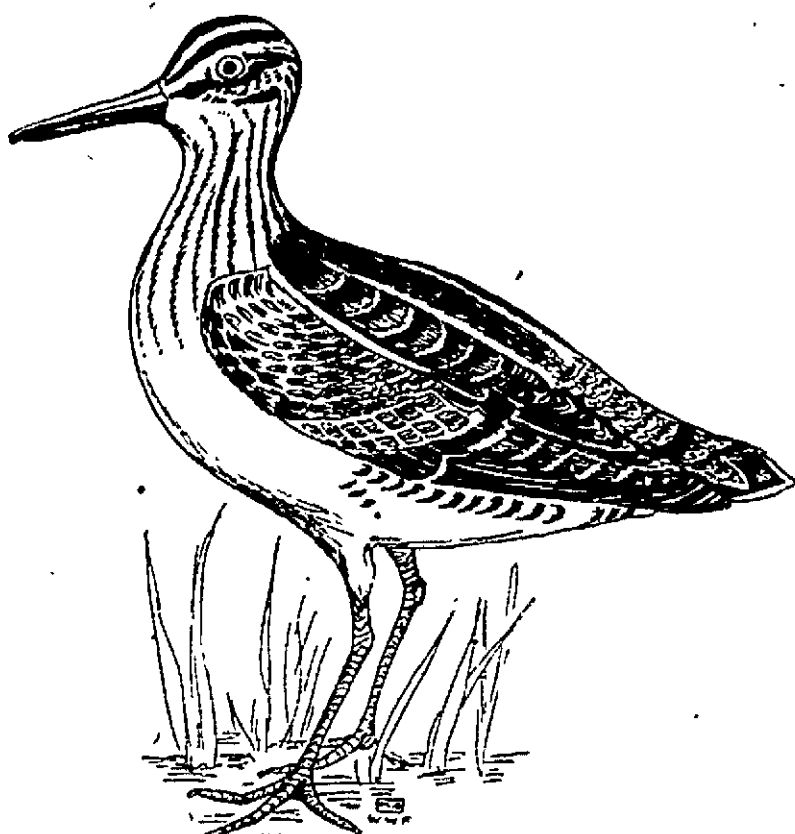

The league will close next Friday with the final games pairing the Hyenas against the Greyhounds, the Badgers meeting the Panthers and the Wildcats and the Lions playing.

Heselon to Speak at Menasha Pep Session

Menasha—A tournament pep assembly will be held Wednesday at Menasha High school with Bernie Heselon, head football coach at Lawrence college, as the speaker. The pep band under the direction of L. E. Kraft will play. The district tournament will open at Menasha High school Wednesday night. The Jays will not play their first game in the tournament until Thursday night.

The reserved seat tickets for the tournament no longer will be on sale at the various local business places after Wednesday noon. A. J. Armstrong, tournament manager announced today. Anyone desiring reserved seats will have to call the high school for reservations.

Identify Wisconsin Birds

"JACK SNIFE"

This is one of a series of 58 brief articles describing birds common to Wisconsin. It is suggested that readers clip these articles and illustrations for a scrapbook.

The Wilson's Snipe is commonly known to Wisconsin hunters as the "Jack Snipe." It is an abundant spring and fall migrant and many remain to nest throughout the state and some can occasionally be found in the state in winter about springs.

This bird has a long, straight bill, white underparts and a striped back. It is usually found singly in meadows.

Its continued abundance is believed due at least in part to its zig-zag escape methods that make it hard to shoot.

The Wilson's Snipe is found throughout North America, Central America, the West Indies and northern South America. It breeds in Alaska and Canada to the northern limit of trees and throughout northern United States from coast to coast and south on the Pacific Coast to southern California. It winters regularly in southern United States and as far south as southern Brazil.

The Wilson's Snipe's nest is a simple affair of grass and leaves, often on a high spot in a bog or marsh.

This snipe makes earthworms its chief diet but also eats cutworms, wireworms, leeches, grasshoppers, locusts, beetles, mosquitoes, etc., and seeds of some marsh plants. It uses its long bill to probe into mudflats in search of food.

Business Women's Club to Hear Address by Dr. Freund

Neenah — Dr. Ludwig Freund, Ripon, will present the second of a series of two lectures on "The World in Turmoil" at the 6:30 supper meeting of the Twin City Business and Professional Women's club in the Valley Inn Wednesday evening.

A 6:30 supper will precede the meeting of the Neenah chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Wednesday evening in the Masonic temple. A social hour will follow the meeting.

Neenah Study club will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. George Terrio, Congress street.

Willing Workers' Community club will meet at the home of Mrs. Herman Inde, Highway 45, Wednesday. Mrs. Mark Prindle and Mrs. Edward Harder will demonstrate the lesson on making rolls and whole wheat bread.

Twin City Visiting Nurse association will meet at 9:30 Wednesday morning in the Neenah-Menasha Y. W. C. A.

The choir of First Evangelical church will meet at 6:45 Wednesday evening in the church.

Women's Missionary society of First Evangelical church will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Ed Schultz, 625 Higgins avenue.

The Misses Josephine and Rosemarie Pluger entertained the Hopless Hoppers club at the Fred Martin home on Harrison street Monday evening. Applicants for membership were discussed and cards received by Rosemarie during a recent illness were photographed by club members. Eleven girls attended the meeting.

Thirty members of the Ever-Ready Bible class attended the Monday evening meeting in First Methodist Episcopal church. Games and a song-test provided entertainment. Hostesses were Mrs. Oscar Roun, Mrs. W. H. Nussbaker, Mrs. David Price, Miss Carrie Merrill and Mrs. E. Palmbach.

Miss Jane Brunke, 39 Bellaire court, Appleton, entertained members of the Theda Clark hospital Nurses alumnae Monday evening. Bridge and schafkopf provided entertainment with prizes awarded Lucille Lenz and Mrs. Theodore Holwinski. Hostesses were Miss Brunke, Marian Haece, Linda Handgarner, Mrs. H. Christofferson and Mrs. Harold Christofferson.

Two Candidates Now in Field for Fifth Ward Office

Paul Fahrenkrug Will Oppose Alderman Loehning for Council Seat

Neenah — The second contest in the race for alderman was assured today when Harry Zemlock, city clerk, issued nomination papers for Paul L. Fahrenkrug, candidate for office from the Fifth ward. Fahrenkrug will oppose Carl E. Loehning, Fifth ward incumbent who already has secured his papers.

Nomination papers were issued to two other persons today. They were to Harvey Nash, candidate for alderman from the First ward, and Charles Korotev, incumbent supervisor of the Fifth ward who will seek reelection.

The only other contest on the ticket so far is in the Third ward aldermanic race where Joseph M. Beisenstein, former alderman, and Richard J. O'Brien, incumbent, have secured papers. Other candidates for alderman so far include Robert M. Martens, Second ward incumbent, and Knud W. Larson, Fourth ward candidate.

Only one supervisor has not secured nomination papers. He is Henry Schultz, Fourth ward incumbent. Gustav Kalfas, Sr. First ward; C. H. Pope, Second ward; J. P. Prebensen, Third ward, and Charles Korotev, Fifth ward, have obtained their papers.

For justice of the peace and school commissioner there are now as many candidates as there are positions open. Two justices are to be elected and Gaylord Loehning, incumbent, and Chris F. Jensen, former justice, are candidates. For member of the school board John C. Simonich and Leo O. Schubart are the candidates for the two posts open.

Expert Carver Talks Before Boys' Brigade Meeting Monday Night

Neenah — C. W. Nelson, Nicolet boulevard, discussed knife carving before the eleventh grade groups of the Boys' Brigade led by Fred Robinson and Earl Williams Monday night at the brigade building. He displayed 30 pieces he has carved.

Mr. Nelson, who is 77 years old, has gained a national reputation for his carving, which he started five years ago. His work has been displayed on the eastern seaboard and as far west as St. Louis. In April he plans to travel in Canada and to the west coast and will exhibit at the worlds fair, using over 1,200 carvings in his exhibit.

The sixth, seventh and eighth grade groups Monday night heard a discussion on "How a Boy Can Improve Himself." The ninth and tenth grade groups discussed "Manners and Conduct." The twelfth grade group discussed "How to Choose Books."

Eighth grade groups will play basketball games Wednesday night. At 7 o'clock Nathan Wauda's group will play Jack Thompson's group. In the second game the group led by Dr. J. Jern will play Ed Meiers group. Thursday night the ninth grade groups will play. Howard Neubauer's group will play Jack Hewitt's group and the Irene Pearson group will play the Aaron Dix group.

Board Creates Fund For Bounty on Crows

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh—The Winnebago county board this morning adopted a resolution creating a fund of $100 to finance bounties to be paid for the extermination of crows in the county.

Branded as a nuisance by the conservation committee of the board, the resolution authorizes the county clerk to pay a bounty of 10 cents per head for every crow shot in the county and brought into his office.

Reports of the various county officers were reviewed by the board.

Honkamp Discusses Hidden Taxes Before Menasha Lions Club

Menasha—Elmer Honkamp, Appleton attorney who was instrumental in the coalition movement in the state last fall, discussed hidden taxes at the Monday noon luncheon meeting of the Menasha Lions club at Hotel Menasha.

He cited the familiar instance of the hidden taxes paid by the purchaser of a package of cigarettes who pays only nine cents for the cigarettes but pays six cents in taxes.

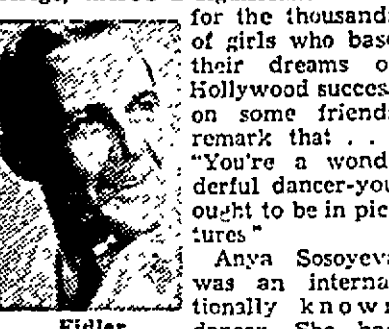

He also went on to discuss government indebtedness and expenditures and means of limiting them. The Lions club will sponsor the next professional wrestling show at S. A. Cook armory on Wednesday March 15. Wally Pierce has been appointed head of the Lions committee to stage the event in cooperation with William Erickson promoter.

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—It the tragic case of Anya Sosoyeva, brutally murdered a few days ago as she walked through the campus of a Los Angeles college, there's a significant lesson for the thousands of girls who base their dreams of Hollywood success on some friends' remarks that "You're a wonderful dancer—you ought to be in pictures."

Anya Sosoyeva was an internationally known dancer. She had toured Europe with a Russian ballet troupe, been featured in the Ziegfeld Follies, been starred in vaudeville. She was beautiful, and she knew "the ropes" which are so important in show business. And yet, at 32, she couldn't get to first base in Hollywood. She had been here for months, trying desperately to get interviews with studio casting directors. They weren't even interested enough to see her.

When a girl with her professional background finds Hollywood so difficult a nut to crack, what chance has a novice, armed with nothing more than a great hope and the compliments of "the gang" back home? Very little, I'm afraid—and yet those optimistic novices keep on trekking to Filmmville by the hundreds. Nothing can stop them and, since hope is its own reward, perhaps it's just as well. But I can't understand how any would-be can read the story of Anya Sosoyeva without hesitating for a sober appraisal of the odds against a Hollywood success.

Have you heard Vivien Leigh play a full scene yet, but she's learned to say "Damsyenne" convincingly enough. Whenever anyone uses that phrase "Growing old gracefully," I involuntarily think of May Robson. Add Hollywood champions: Ida Lupino—backgammon queen. Errol Flynn is another of those people about whom it's impossible to be indifferent—either you think he's a grand guy or you dislike him thoroughly. It's girls like Claudette Colbert who make life complex for the cameraman—she refuses to pose with her right profile to the lens.

If there's anything in pre-natal influence, Maureen O'Sullivan's "Little Visitor" should be what all climbing trees. The sceptics who call perpetual motion an impossibility aren't necessarily narrow-minded—they just haven't met Jane Withers. Writes Jack McCauley of San Francisco: "Hollywood, where you have to listen sharply at wedding ceremonies—to tell whether the bride and groom say 'Adieu' or 'I do.'"

Some of Hollywood's big-shot Stars who do nip-ups unless their lofty condition is proclaimed on every possible occasion might do worse than to hang over their dressing tables framed copies of a memorandum which I saw today in the office of a Universal producer. It gives, by innuendo, one significant reason why a very popular star remains popular. Addressed to the advertising department, it read as follows: "In publicizing the new Bing Crosby picture, do not refer to Mr. Crosby as a star without his written permission."

Seeing Nancy Kelly in the full-skirted, old-fashioned costumes which she's wearing in "Stanley and Livingstone," it's a constant effort to remember that she is actually a seventeen-year-old adolescent. And the effort is increased by the dramatic nature of her roles. Today, chatting with her on the set, I noticed that the canvas pocket of her set chair was bulging and asked what she was storing there. Here's the detailed inventory, jotted down as she produced each article for inspection: a book, a copy of the script, two fan magazines, a half-knitted sweater, a bag of caramel candy, a package of chewing gum and a chamois pouch filled with marbles. It won't be so hard for me to remember her age from now on.

Here's an anecdote that spotlights Doug Corrigan's strange-to-Hollywood-humility. When his picture was previewed the other night, the studio, thoroughly versed in the demands usually made by stars, set aside a block of twenty tickets for his disposal. That afternoon, Doug telephoned that he wouldn't be able to attend. "Please," he urged, "would you mind giving my ticket to my sister? I know she'd like to go."

St. Patrick Motif Used as Sigma Alpha Iota Alumnae Entertain Actives, Pledges

ST. PATRICK decorations were in evidence at the dessert party given by Sigma Alpha Iota alumnae for the actives and pledges Monday night in the chapter rooms in Pan. Hellenic house. Forty persons were present and bridge and Chinese checkers provided entertainment, prizes at bridge going to Miss Phyllis Gebro and Miss La Verne McClatchie and at checkers to Miss Doris Draeb and Miss Marjorie Patterson.

Hostesses were Miss Anna Stee, Miss Jane Drevel and Miss David Fulton. The next alumnae meeting will be March 27 when a pot-luck supper will be served at the home of Mrs. A. A. Krabbe, 412 W. Fifth street, with Mrs. A. S. MacArthur of Neenah as assistant hostess.

An open card party will be given by Circle 6 of First Congregational church at 2:15 Wednesday afternoon.

Little Women Outline Plans For Barn Dance

A BARN dance to be held the week after Easter was planned by Little Women's circle of the King's daughters at a meeting last night at the home of Miss Madge Courtney, 3 Pierce court. Miss Jean Rühling was appointed general chairman and the following committees were named: place, the Misses Monica Jones, chairman; Mary Galpin and Bertha Smyrnes; decorations, the Misses Lucille Heinritz, Billie Kolt, Ann Smith, Katherine Schuh and Elizabeth Heckel; orchestra, the Misses Nancy McKee, chairman; and Madge Courtney; date, the Misses Monica Jones, and Nancy McKee; tickets, the Misses Janet Jones, chairman; and Mary Ellen Schuenter. Miss Fern Bauer will direct the refreshment stand.

The style show and card party which the circle had planned for this month was canceled because of similar events being planned by other organizations. The next meeting will be March 27.

Their service program for the year was discussed by members of the auxiliary to the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at a dinner meeting Monday night at the Hearshurston Tea room. After the meeting the group placed a quilt which will be given to a needy family. Mrs. L. M. Rosholt acted as hostess for the meeting.

Mrs. J. Ross Frampton reviewed "The James," by Blair Niles, one of a series of river books, at the meeting of the Clio club Monday night at the home of Mrs. Herbert L. Davis, 620 N. Meade street. Mrs. George Wood will be hostess to the club March 13, at which time Mrs. John W. Wilson will present the program.

Sunshine club of the Women's Relief corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Patrick Ferguson, 402 E. Lincoln street. Mrs. Sophie Jolin will be assistant hostess.

Town and Gown club will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederick Trezise, 208 N. Meade street. As part of the club's study of the frontier, Mrs. C. C. Cast will discuss "The Mountain Men."

Group Will Confer On Citizenship Day Program Possibility

Plans for sponsoring a Citizenship day celebration in Appleton for a group of welcoming young men and women who have this year arrived at voting age will be discussed at a meeting of representatives from all organizations in Appleton, including patriotic groups, service clubs, lodges, clubs and church groups, at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. Manitowoc was the first city in the United States to launch plans for such a celebration, upon the suggestion of Prof. R. J. Colbert, head of the extension department of economics and sociology at the University of Wisconsin, and who cuties are rapidly adopting the plan.

The meeting of representatives of all city organizations was originally called by Appleton Woman's club, but the celebration will be civic in nature and not under the sponsorship of any particular group. The representatives will discuss the possibility of holding a Citizenship day in Appleton and consider the type of program best suited to local needs.

Gray Hair at my age?
CERTAINLY NOT—I CAN'T AFFORD IT!
CANUTE WATER
SOLVES MY PROBLEM
If you have gray hair, simply wet it with Canute Water and allow to dry. In 1 to 3 applications (depending on shade) it will be completely re-colored, similar to its former natural shade. All in one day, if you wish. After that a single treatment only once a month will keep it that way.
You may curl, wave or set your hair—or get a permanent. The color is also proof against sun, air, salt-water and shampooing.
Canute Water is pure, colorless and crystal-clear. It leaves your hair clean and natural to the touch. You will be unable to distinguish the re-colored hair from the natural. You will be delighted to see how completely Canute Water solves your problem.

SAFE!
No Skin Test Needed
Canute Water is safe and pure. It has been used for over 25 years without injury to a single person. In addition to this remarkable record of safety Canute Water was also tested and proven perfectly harmless by a World Scientist in one of America's greatest Universities.
NO OTHER PRODUCT CAN MAKE THESE CLAIMS
It is any wonder that we sell more Canute Water than all other hair coloring preparations combined?

Appleton Woman's Club Will Hear Address on Citizenship

PROF. R. J. COLBERT of the University of Wisconsin extension division, originator of the plan for the observance of Citizenship day in Manitowoc with appropriate ceremonies to welcome as new citizens young men and women who have reached the age of 21 and will vote for the first time in the next election, will be the speaker at the meeting of Appleton Federated Women's club at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the club house. His subject will be "Citizenship." As the result of a proposal by Prof. Colbert, Manitowoc will be the first city in the United States to observe Citizenship day on May 21, when 1,200 young men and women of that county who have reached their majority during the year will, following a course of training in their duties as voters, in government and its operation, graduate into the electorate.

Prof. Colbert is head of the bureau of economics and sociology in the extension division, and associate professor in the same field on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin since 1921. His work in the preparation for citizenship has attracted such nationwide attention that the state of California has asked him to go there to prepare a program on American citizenship.

He received his B. A. from De Pauw university, studied a year in the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, took three years graduate work at the University of Michigan and received his Ph. D. from the University of Wisconsin.

Members of Outagamie County Federated women's clubs will be guests at the meeting, and the public in general has been invited to attend. The club chorus will sing, and Mrs. Edgar V. Werner, Eighth district president, will tell of the work being done in this district. Hostesses will be Mrs. W. F. Kelm, St. Joseph's church, said in a talk at St. Joseph's hall last night that in these documents may be found the stand of religion in the economic world.

Father Gerard said that battles of ancient history or revolutions never affected in a permanent way the status of the working classes nor extended to the economic field. Father Gerard spoke of the false doctrine of liberalism which denied the laborers' inalienable right to organize and denied the state's equally essential right and duty to intervene in labor disputes. He discussed Marxian socialism and the Communism, whose proposals, purporting to help the workingman, if carried out would cause him to suffer first, would rob the lawful possessor, and would "bring the state into a sphere which is not its own and bring the community into confusion."

"The supreme law is the law laid down in the nature of man by God," the speaker stated. "The earth is made for mankind. This statement does not deny the right to private property but it certainly does not permit man to use his private property in any way that would be detrimental to mankind. The church defends the right of private property against both extremes, that of liberalism and of Communism."

Circle Plans 'Pay to Play' Card Parties

A SERIES of "pay to play" card parties will be the March money-making project of the Service circle of Appleton King's Daughters. Plans for the parties were made last night at the circle's monthly meeting at Miss Lola Mae Zuelke's apartment in the Irving Zuelke building. Between now and the April meeting each member will entertain one table of cards at her home. The circle is also selling a quilt this month to help swell its coffers for the charity work it carries on during the year. Reports on the roller skating party held last month and plans for the summer charity dance were given. Miss Florence Verbrick and Mrs. John Rechner assisted Miss Zuelke as hostess.

Mrs. J. W. Robson discussed the second act of the opera "Twilight of the Gods," by Wagner, at the meeting of the Godea club Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ben Rowland, W. Parkway boulevard. The club will meet in two weeks at Mrs. Thomas Kepler's home on E. Alton street, at which time Mrs. Charles M. Koon will present the program.

The drama group of the American Association of University Women will meet tonight in Miss Iva Welch's apartment at Brookhale hall. Miss Welch will read Claire Booth's play, "Kiss the Boys Good-bye."

Mrs. Julia Reineck was hostess to the Fiction club Monday afternoon at her home on N. Oneida street. Mrs. Helen Mason read E. L. Rice's new play, "American Landscape."

Inventor, Who Dislikes Hague, To Raze Property, Leave Jersey

Plainfield, N. J.—The sound of the woodman's ax rang out again today on the palatial estate of Samuel W. Rushmore, wealthy inventor, who vowed he would raze his property and quit the state because "there's no hope for Jersey."

Up early, the 67-year-old Rushmore said he told a gang of men, who needed only the go-ahead signal, to begin felling trees on that part of the estate nearest the property of Senator Charles E. Loeux, a neighbor whom Rushmore says he'll no longer support for public office.

The inventor would not comment on the action of the state senate last night in confirming Frank Hague, Jr., son of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, the state Democratic leader—an appointment Rushmore asked Loeux, a Republican, to oppose.

He had said a report that Loeux would support the nomination was the "last straw" and prompted him to move to break his New Jersey ties. Loeux, who denied expressing any opinion on the appointment, was ill at home when confirmation was voted.

Signs reading "Because Hague is the law—for sale" were posted on his $200,000 hilltop estate months ago.

A veteran of seven years litigation in the divorce courts, which he said cost him $85,000, Rushmore asserted New Jersey was "not safe for life or property; the courts give us no protection and I intend to cut all strings."

Catlin, Van Vonderen Again High at Bridge

Some of the most consistent winners in the contract bridge tournament held each Monday night at Elks hall, Mark Catlin, Jr., and E. J. Van Vonderen were high scorers again last night. They totaled 1441 match points to take first place honors in the American league. Second in the same league were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Haldeman, with 1241 match points.

National league winners last night were L. L. Doerflinger and Jay C. Walters, first with 127, and David Smith and Burton Manser, second with 125. Play will be continued next Monday night.

St. Ann's Society to Have Meeting Thursday

Shoction—Members of St. Ann's society will conduct their March meeting at their parish hall Thursday afternoon. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Joe Oskey, Mrs. William Roberts and Mrs. Isaac Young. After the business session cards will be played.

Services will be conducted every Friday evening during Lent at St. Denis Catholic church by the Rev. George Beth beginning at 7:45.

Mrs. Verr Booth of Rhineland arrived here Saturday to assist in caring for her grandmother, Mrs. E. Palmer, who has been in failing health for some time. Charlie Palmer of New London spent the weekend with his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Palmer of Clintonville also spent the weekend at the Palmer home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McCully, Mrs. Phil Palmer and Glen Mann were at Oshkosh Sunday to visit the former's son, Lyle McCully of New London, who is a patient at Mercy hospital having submitted to a major operation about ten days ago.

Visit to Haunts of Red-Winged Blackbird Interesting Outing

By CLARA HUSSONG
Moist thickets where willows, dogwoods and alder bushes grow are good places to look for one of our earliest of spring birds, the red-winged blackbird. Visiting a place of this sort was the suggestion given you for the month of March in my outline at the beginning of the year.

The red-winged blackbird is a very good name among farmers because of his habit of pulling up sprouting grain and, later in summer descending upon grain and corn fields to feed on it. It is a pest to the farmer, but a friend to the bird lover.

March and makes the swamp and marshlands ring with his tuneful notes, we can't help liking him in spite of all his bad habits. "O-kar-ree, o-kar-ree," he gurgles as he sits on a willow or alder shrub. Have you ever watched the grotesque motions he goes through while bubbling forth his song? He lifts his head against his shoulders and then stretches his bill forth again as he opens his bill to sing. Most birds assume a graceful pose while singing but the red-winged blackbird cares nothing for a graceful posture.

Raise Several Broods
A little later in spring the female who are dusky, streaked birds, but grassy nests which they weave among the leaves of cattail, rushes or reeds. These well-constructed basket nests are usually a foot or two above the ground, but sometimes, especially if the nest is placed in a small shrub, it is placed three or more feet above the ground.

The three to six eggs are pale greenish-white, lightly marked with darker lines. Several broods are raised each summer. The young birds are fed such injurious insects as weevils and grasshoppers, of which the older birds also are very fond, so far as their insect food is concerned, red-wings are highly beneficial. They eat a great many more weed seeds than grain, and in some states they are given protection along with other desirable song birds. This is most true in areas where the blackbird is not as common as it is here. The bird is not protected in Wisconsin.

Red-wings are hardy birds and during mild winters a few remain in the state instead of migrating. This winter they were reported as being seen here in December and January. Meadowlarks, relatives of the blackbird, were seen during those same months also.

Live Among Willows
While visiting the red-winged haunts you will be attracted by the shrubs growing there. The most often to be seen in a place of this sort are those mentioned above: willow, dogwood and alder. You will recognize willows easily by the swelling "puzzles" or catkins. In some willows you will notice that the catkins are still very tiny, covered with the brown jacket and growing tight against the twig.

The pussy willow has the plump, catkins, which by the middle of the month have already burst out of their brown winter covers. The catkins of any plant which bears them, are its flowers but it is not until the velvety scales have spread out, and pollen covers the male catkins that they are in full bloom. The white velvety pussies we see in March are willow buds.

Dogwood, assemblage willows in manner of growth, that is, many shoots emerge from a common root, but they bear no catkins. The red-sizer variety is the easiest to recognize, by its bright red bark. Other species have orange, green, brown or grayish bark. In May dogwoods bear clusters of tiny white flowers.

Better Chorus In Morning
Alders bear catkins also but they differ greatly from the willow pussies. In willows male and female catkins grow on different trees but in alders both sexes are found on a single tree, even on a single twig. In March the female catkin is very tiny, and looks like a small hard seed or berry. The male catkins hang in pendant clusters of two, three or four, each one about an inch in length. They are of a beautiful wine-red color. As the weather warms they grow longer and by April they will be no longer firm and hard, but lengthened out into soft powdery curls.

When you hear the first robin, bluebird or kilder about your home then you will know it is time to visit the near-by swamp to hear the clucks and gurgles of the red-wing. In the part of the state the average time for their arrival is the middle of the month and the early morning hours are better for hearing their choruses than later in the day.

Moist thickets where willows, dogwoods and alder bushes grow are good places to look for one of our earliest of spring birds, the red-winged blackbird. Visiting a place of this sort was the suggestion given you for the month of March in my outline at the beginning of the year.

The red-winged blackbird is a very good name among farmers because of his habit of pulling up sprouting grain and, later in summer descending upon grain and corn fields to feed on it. It is a pest to the farmer, but a friend to the bird lover.

March and makes the swamp and marshlands ring with his tuneful notes, we can't help liking him in spite of all his bad habits. "O-kar-ree, o-kar-ree," he gurgles as he sits on a willow or alder shrub. Have you ever watched the grotesque motions he goes through while bubbling forth his song? He lifts his head against his shoulders and then stretches his bill forth again as he opens his bill to sing. Most birds assume a graceful pose while singing but the red-winged blackbird cares nothing for a graceful posture.

Raise Several Broods
A little later in spring the female who are dusky, streaked birds, but grassy nests which they weave among the leaves of cattail, rushes or reeds. These well-constructed basket nests are usually a foot or two above the ground, but sometimes, especially if the nest is placed in a small shrub, it is placed three or more feet above the ground.

The three to six eggs are pale greenish-white, lightly marked with darker lines. Several broods are raised each summer. The young birds are fed such injurious insects as weevils and grasshoppers, of which the older birds also are very fond, so far as their insect food is concerned, red-wings are highly beneficial. They eat a great many more weed seeds than grain, and in some states they are given protection along with other desirable song birds. This is most true in areas where the blackbird is not as common as it is here. The bird is not protected in Wisconsin.

Red-wings are hardy birds and during mild winters a few remain in the state instead of migrating. This winter they were reported as being seen here in December and January. Meadowlarks, relatives of the blackbird, were seen during those same months also.

Live Among Willows
While visiting the red-winged haunts you will be attracted by the shrubs growing there. The most often to be seen in a place of this sort are those mentioned above: willow, dogwood and alder. You will recognize willows easily by the swelling "puzzles" or catkins. In some willows you will notice that the catkins are still very tiny, covered with the brown jacket and growing tight against the twig.

The pussy willow has the plump, catkins, which by the middle of the month have already burst out of their brown winter covers. The catkins of any plant which bears them, are its flowers but it is not until the velvety scales have spread out, and pollen covers the male catkins that they are in full bloom. The white velvety pussies we see in March are willow buds.

Dogwood, assemblage willows in manner of growth, that is, many shoots emerge from a common root, but they bear no catkins. The red-sizer variety is the easiest to recognize, by its bright red bark. Other species have orange, green, brown or grayish bark. In May dogwoods bear clusters of tiny white flowers.

Better Chorus In Morning
Alders bear catkins also but they differ greatly from the willow pussies. In willows male and female catkins grow on different trees but in alders both sexes are found on a single tree, even on a single twig. In March the female catkin is very tiny, and looks like a small hard seed or berry. The male catkins hang in pendant clusters of two, three or four, each one about an inch in length. They are of a beautiful wine-red color. As the weather warms they grow longer and by April they will be no longer firm and hard, but lengthened out into soft powdery curls.

When you hear the first robin, bluebird or kilder about your home then you will know it is time to visit the near-by swamp to hear the clucks and gurgles of the red-wing. In the part of the state the average time for their arrival is the middle of the month and the early morning hours are better for hearing their choruses than later in the day.

Village Board Extends Tax Payment Time if Affidavits are Filed

Kimberly — Bills and claims amounting to $43,122.65 were allowed by the village board at a meeting at the village hall Monday evening. The amount includes $4,000 transfer from the general account to PWA account, temporary; Outagamie county's state tax and state special charges, $3,553.70; school district, No. 6, $33,000; Kimberly Vocational school $1,500; Community band, $2,100.

Employers Mutual benefit insurance policy $648.38; Murphy Gravel Company, $765.30; Home Supply company, $707.69. Any amount of material purchased for the construction of street sign post, concrete blocks, manholes, will be returned to the general fund to the village in the near future.

The board voted to extend the tax payment time to July 1, providing an affidavit is filed with the treasurer. Harry Van Humberger, treasurer, said that the affidavits can be filed until March 15, after which time he turns in his books. Van Humberger also reported that only 35 dogs have been licensed, which leaves a large number of dog taxes delinquent.

Mrs. Ray Behling was awarded first prize at schachkopf, Sunday evening at the clubhouse while Mrs. Arnold Van Lamoon won second.

Continue Hearing on Ouster of Officials

Rhineland—(U)—Testimony on the petition of two taxpayers for removal of four town of Minocqua officers—Chairman Gale W. Huber, Clerk D. A. Titus and Supervisors Harold McNutt and Louis Dionne—continued today before Circuit Judge George J. Leicht.

The taxpayers, J. H. Crowe and Harvey A. Jossart, accused the officials of "inefficiency, neglect of duty and official misconduct."

Titus testified yesterday the town board had audited and paid a number of unverified claims and that it had paid two claims—$1,000 to the Island City band and $1,500 to the Minocqua Resort Owners association—in an invalid manner.

He said Huber, McNutt and Dionne had been paid salaries although the law specified per diem payments.

Freight Rates are Not Fair, F.D.R.'s Son Says

Fort Worth, Texas—(U)—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, mentioned "a black mark against the ledger of the present administration" in a discussion about so-called discriminatory freight rates in the southwest.

In a radio broadcast by transcription last night Roosevelt said "unless something is done about the rate discrimination in the southwest at this session of congress... Texas... will consider the lack of facing the problem a black-mark against the ledger of the present administration, as well as the interstate commerce commission..."

Funny Feeling May Not be Love; Just Too Much Pie

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—How can a boy tell if he is in love? Are a funny feeling in your breast, forgetting yourself often, a desire to be with no other girl, forgiving her for anything she does and dreaming of her all day long signs of love? I will be so thankful if you can help me out.

SOUTH PARK.

Answer:

Well, son, no other complaint is so hard to diagnose as love, because so many of the symptoms are misleading and what a fellow so often thinks is a fatal heart attack is nothing more than a passing indisposition.

Now take your case, for instance. That funny feeling in your breast that you complain of may, of course, be a serious attack of love, but it is just as likely to be too much pie. Your dreaming of the girl all day long and your desire to be with no other cutie certainly indicates a slight rise of temperature, but that happens to every boy of your age whenever he thinks of the last girl he met, and isn't serious.

Your most alarming symptom is being able to forgive the girl for anything she does; letting her make a doormat out of you; letting her make you feel and carry for her; letting her break dates with you when she needs a new man and whistles you back when she needs somebody to drag her around. But that isn't so much love as it is temporary softening of the brain. However, you will recover from that also in time.

So you see it isn't really easy to tell when you are in love, and it is no wonder that you are doubtful about the matter when you recall how many times you were certain that you had a case that you would never get over. Then in a few days—or weeks or months—you made such a perfect recovery that you couldn't even remember what you had, or how you came to catch it. Some men go through life without ever being able to distinguish between the grand passion and a passing fancy. Which is a pity for them and for the women they marry.

So before you decide that you are in love for keeps, check up on a few points that will help you to reach a final decision. Is she the girl of your dreams? Is she a good-looking and a swell dresser who makes people "rubber" wherever she goes? Is she a fancy dancer? Is she an expert salve-spreader who tells you how wonderful you are? If so, put your emotions to the acid test. Dreams seldom come true, and some day you are mighty likely to wake up and wonder whatever made you think you wanted her.

But if you can think a homely girl is better looking than "Miss America"; if you like to dance with her when she steps on your toes, and if you can listen to home truths from her and like it, then that's real love. Another test of love is being able to stand unlimited quantities of a girl's society even when you are not having a petting party and she is not jollying you along. If you really pine to hear a girl talk about herself, and what Papa said and Mamma does, and the cute way the baby acts, then that's love that you can bank on.

But the best test of love is whether it makes you realize all of a sudden that there is a lot more in life than just going around and having good times, or mooning and dreaming about a girl's eyes. It is something that makes you want to roll up your sleeves and go to work for her and make a home and settle down in it for keeps. The acid test of a man's love for a woman is what he is willing to do for her.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been going with a boy for several years. He insists he is in love with me, but tells me he has no intention of marrying me or any one else. I really love him, but I don't know what to do about the situation.

BEWILDERED.

Answer: Show him the door. That is the only intelligent answer to the problem of what to do with a man whose attentions are without intentions.

Face the fact that this man doesn't love you. He only loves himself. He will never love anybody but himself. If you are hanging on in the hope that some day you can make him care enough for you to be willing to give up his freedom for you and share his income with you, you are simply befooling yourself.

As long as you will let him, he will go on monopolizing your time and thoughts because it flatters his

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Those who know her consider IRENE DUNNE the "Gracious Lady." Her charm weaves a spell over all.

Pretty manners, and considerate ones, are again the vogue. Being a "lady" is definitely the fashion. This news, is going to be bad news to those women and girls who think rudeness is both attractive and effective.

Even though the era of "bad manners" which we have at last passed, graciousness always reaped its reward. And it is well to learn as young as possible that being gracious gets you places, whereas being rude gets you in general disfavor.

In Business Especially If you work, your associates are apt to be brusque at times which makes you pretty angry. But before unleashing your tongue pause to consider that they, as well as yourself, are rushed in the day's work, and may also be upset with worry or illness.

People, generally, like to be kind and mannerly. Some are timid about being gracious, others hide an inferior feeling by being curt and rude. But graciousness charms, and if you want to be considered and remembered as one who is a lovely woman, you will be gracious even against great irritation.

Don't Confuse Characteristics By urging you to be kind and considerate I do not for a minute want you to be a Miss Hilquetoast. You know, that type of girl is so darn sweet and good natured that all friends and acquaintances step

Children Need Time Before They Can Express Learning

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What did you learn in school today, Bessie?" "Nothing," says Bessie, taking another bite of cookie.

"O, you must have learned something! Didn't the teacher tell you anything?"

"O, yes. She told us lots of things."

"Of course. I knew she did. Tell me what you learned. You're not dumb, are you? You must have learned something."

"No. Can I have another cookie?"

"If you tell me what you learned today in kindergarten I'll give you two, one in each hand. Now, tell me what you learned?"

"Nothing," said Bessie, beginning to cry. "I want a cookie."

Mother sighed deeply. She expected so much from Bessie when she started for school this term, and here she was saying, "Nothing, nothing, every day." Surely she cannot be so stupid as to learn just nothing every day?

Do not take that Nothing so seriously. No child can stay in a kindergarten class all morning and learn Nothing. She learns plenty. But little children take in impressions for a long time before they pile them into experiences that can be expressed in their rather inadequate vocabulary. Not only are they short of words, they have not yet many of them, grown the power of generalizing experiences. Give them time. They will be able to pour out a story faster than you can hear it, by and by. But first they must gather the impressions and, after that, the power to express them.

It is true that some children have this power when they go to kindergarten. That is not to say that the children who do not have it are backward. No two children grow the same way, nor along the same lines at the same time. Some will talk freely and intelligently about the day's doings, and some will not because they haven't reached that place yet.

Talking Good Game Easier Than Playing

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Some of the letters I receive point out that many of the players in my published hands must be "awful dubs."

Granted! But now I want to do some pointing out on my own behalf. To begin, it is fortunate for me and other bridge writers that mistakes do occur in a large proportion of deals; otherwise we would have nothing to write about. Next, I have a sneaking suspicion that at least a few of my correspondents are better analysts away from the bridge table than they are at it. Many times in my bridge career have I had players regale me with the most cogent, even profound, discussion of a bridge hand, only to find that the same individuals flounder around like fish when they actually have to play such a hand in competition. The fact is that all of us, every one, make stupid mistakes at the bridge table and we must be very careful about "casting that stone."

I must admit, however, that I would have liked to have thrown a small pebble at my partner in the following deal:

South, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

NORTH		EAST
♠ 7 5		♠ J 4 3 2
♥ 7		♥ 10 6 3
♦ K Q 10 6		♦ A 5 4
♣ K Q 10 6 3		♣ A 9 5
WEST		SOUTH
♠ None		♠ A 10 9 8 6
♥ J 9 8 5 4		♥ A K 2
♦ J 8 5		♦ 7 2
♣ A 9 5		♣ J 7 4

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 hearts	3 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Double
Pass	Pass	Redouble	Pass

Sitting North, I felt that we were set for a killing at four spades redoubled. With all the honor strength and good distribution in my hand, and with a rebid spade suit in my partner's, it did not seem possible that the opponents could take more than three tricks, if that many. I learned!

West opened the heart queen and declarer won with the ace. The spade six was led to the king and the trump situation was revealed. The 5-0 break probably frightened my partner so badly that he never recovered. On the return lead of the spade seven East split his honors, playing the jack, and declarer won with the ace. A diamond now was led toward dummy and the queen was taken by East. (A hold-up of the ace might have given declarer a small amount of "guessing trouble" at least.)

The heart ten was returned and won by the king. Declarer led a low club. West ducked and the queen won. Declarer now cashed the diamond king, then, when the jack still remained at large, ruffed a low diamond with the spade eight. On another club lead West hopped up and played a third round of clubs, his partner having high-lowed with the eight and deuce.

East ruffed and now a spade return killed the dummy and made it impossible for declarer to ruff his losing heart. In all, he lost one spade, one diamond, and one club.

I need hardly point out that the contract could have been fulfilled. A low club opening originally, with a subsequent club ruff by East, would have been a different story, but after the heart opening, nothing should have saved the defense. Admittedly, declarer would have had to risk a finesse against the jack of diamonds, but surely this was preferable to risking the play of three rounds of clubs. Note the vast difference if the play had gone as follows. At the second trick declarer leads a diamond to the queen and presumably loses to the ace declarer plays a low spade to dummy, and now a low club is led to the jack; if West holds up the ace declarer plays a low spade to the king and returns a spade, capturing East's Jack. At this point it becomes obvious that declarer can not afford to lead another round of clubs, hence, after cashing his remaining high heart, he must risk a diamond finesse to the ten spot. When it holds he discards a club on the diamond king and thereby prevents a third round club ruff. East can make only one trump trick and the only other losers are the two aces.

If, on declarer's lead to the club jack, west wins, he can make no return to embarrass the declarer and the danger of a club ruff is avoided completely.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Miriam is worried because she can hear colors. Tones from piano or violin bring up corresponding hues of red or blue, orange or lavender. She thinks she must be losing her mind. She simply demonstrates synesthesia.

CASE M-108: Miriam V., aged 20, is an actress of marked ability. "For years I have been worried, though," she announced as soon as she sat down across from me, "because I think I may be losing my mind."

"My problem is very unusual, Dr. Crane, and I wonder if you have ever encountered anything like it before."

"Whenever I hear certain words spoken, I immediately see various colors. For example, the word

'noise' always calls up the color red. The word 'girl' makes me see lavender. 'Stairs' sound yellow to me, if you get what I mean.

"And various notes on the piano have their characteristic color. In fact, the tenor and bass, the alto and soprano in the church choir always arouse the same colors. It isn't the person, for we may have a visiting tenor, for example, and he makes me see my typical 'tenor' color."

"Dr. Crane, did you ever hear of anything so strange? Am I crazy?"

DIAGNOSIS: We human beings are extremely egotistical. If we have an ache or pain, or some psychological quirk, we tend to think that no other person since Adam and Eve has ever had that same kind of experience.

Miriam's condition is comparatively common. I used to have it myself until the middle teens, and thousands of you readers have also visualized colors when certain words or tones were heard.

It is called synesthesia. It has nothing to do with insanity. So Miriam is wrong in both of her beliefs regarding its uniqueness and abnormality.

The association of specific colors with definite words or tones is not only a commonplace in psychology, but various experiments have been conducted with reference to it.

Children have been tested with long lists of words to find if they are consistent in their synesthesia, and have proved very much so. Suppose we read off a list of 300 words to such a youngster. Let us assume that the 8th word on the list is "noise" and the child says he sees the color "red," as was true of Miriam in today's case.

Then we call off different words until we come to the 17th on the list, which we'll say is a repetition of Number 8. The child may instantly call out "red" to this second contact with "noise."

In some cases there is a slight variation. He may respond with "purple" instead of "red."

Now let's suppose we lay aside this list of words with their associated colors, and ten or twenty years later, repeat the experiment. What do you think would happen?

Delayed Tests Well, some people lose this ability to visualize colors after the passage of years. This was true in my own case. But others retain it, and show fairly consistent results between their later tests and those made many years previously.

Space will not permit a discussion of the theories underlying synesthesia, but I have presented today's case primarily to show you how Miriam's ignorance on this point caused needless worry and dread of insanity. This column is being run in your newspaper because your editor believes in freeing people from unnecessary terrors and uncertainty.

There is truly a Road to Happiness through the wilderness of ignorance and superstition which have too long fettered mankind. Logic and truth will guide you safely along this road.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

Family Dinner

Lent always brings to the home-maker the problem of what to serve as substitute for meat for those dinners when meat should not be served. Even though there are no new foods to add variety to meals, there are always new ways of treating the old ones. Escalloped salmon is a delicious, nourishing and practical main dish. Everyone will eat such disgraceful quantities of this good dish they'll have little room to spare for others. Serve a tomato and endive salad, delicious currant and nut muffins, and for dessert, baked apples with honey.

Escalloped Salmon
Tomato and Endive Salad
Currant Nut Muffins
Baked Apples with Honey

Whipped Cream

1 cup chopped celery
2 onions, chopped fine
1 cup peas, drained
1 tall can salmon
3 tablespoons butter
2 cups milk
1 cup buttered bread or cracker crumbs

Cook celery and onions in boiling salted water 20 minutes, drain. Combine onion, celery, with peas and flaked salmon. Make a white sauce by melting the butter, blend in flour, add milk gradually and cook stirring constantly until thickened. Add the vegetables and salmon to the sauce and pour into a greased casserole. Top with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes.

Currant Nut Muffins
2 1/2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
2 cups flour

1 cup currants
1 cup broken nuts
1 cup milk

Mix melted butter, sugar and beaten egg together. Sift flour and baking powder, add currants and nuts and add alternately with milk to the first mixture. Bake in greased muffin pans in a moderate hot oven 400 degrees F. 25 minutes.

Baked Apples
18 teaspoons strained honey
6 tablespoons orange juice
6 walnut meats
14 teaspoons butter
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Pare and core apples place them in a baking dish and in the center of each drop 3 teaspoons honey, 1 teaspoon orange juice, 1 walnut and 1 teaspoon butter. Bake in a hot oven 400 degrees F. until transparent, about 30 minutes. Serve hot or cold with a swirl of slightly sweetened whipped cream, to which 2 tablespoons of sugar and vanilla has been added.

To remove grease stains from a stove sprinkle salt on a stiff brush which has been dipped in hot water and thoroughly scrub the stove.

Peter Mallone: Adventurous young journalist.
Petronella: His loyal sister.

Yesterday: Petrel receives a letter from the Russian government asking ransom for their relatives.

Chapter 21
Good Exercise

Peter's boss told Petrel, "If Peter still wants to go to Russia, this looks like a good excuse for going. It will give him the personal touch with the real Russia, which we need. He can take the ransom money along with him."

"Russia!" She was both glad, and afraid.

"Now I'm going to talk to you like a father, Petrel. Peter is shapely well. Between you and me, very well. But now don't get angry, I'm not denying he is a bright boy—but it is lucky for him he has such a good secretary! Don't argue," she silenced her protest. "I have to say this. It is my excuse for sending him on this errand."

has grossly exaggerated, or mad-mistakes. I know the only reason he wasn't shown the Yugoslavian back door after that March incident." Petronella flushed. She could not deny that she had worked hard. It was true, but she had not expected this acknowledgment.

"Peter would never believe how strict the censorship was," she admitted. Martin Rowdon was helpful, a good friend. She did not feel that his criticism of Peter would affect his future assistance in Peter's career.

"Other people warned me," she told him. "We received verbal warning, that his correspondence was not to be the liking of the authorities. Our telephone was tapped, continuously. I cut one wire. The next day there was another under the carpet. We were followed by a little man with a red nose. I had to let Peter out at my hairdresser's back entrance, to shake him off. But Peter does everything that matters." Rowdon nodded.

Oceans and Ocean Life

II—Salt in the Sea

Many tests have been made to find out how much salt there is in ocean water. The average amount is about three parts of salt in 100 parts of water.

In one cubic mile of ocean water, there is enough salt to form dozens of pyramids as large as the Great Pyramid of Gizeh.

If all the salt in the oceans could be taken out and poured evenly on North America, it would cover our continent with a deep layer. This layer would rise to more than five times the height of the Empire State building.

Those notes give us some idea of the vast amount of salt in the sea. Scientists have found that rivers keep taking more salt to the oceans. We call river water "fresh," but there is a little salt in it, salt which is worn away from rocks.

With thousands of rivers pouring water into the oceans, millions of tons of salt are carried there every year. The question comes, "Why is ocean water more salty than river water?"

The chief answer is to be found in the work of sunshine. The sun keeps turning ocean water into vapor, and the vapor rises into the air, forming mist and clouds.

When ocean water is turned into vapor, the salt is left behind. Salt does not rise in the air. The water in the ocean keeps growing more salty.

Efforts have been made to judge the age of the oceans by the amount of salt in the water. The rate at which rivers carry the salt is known rather closely, also the total amount in the oceans. On this basis, the age has been estimated at about 70,000,000 years.

There are troubles with that way of judging. In past ages, rivers probably have not taken salt to the sea at the same rate. Also it seems almost certain that a great deal of salt has come from the ocean bottom.

Plants live in the ocean water, but not at the greatest depths. Sunshine reaches down hardly a third of a mile, and below that point, the sea bottom has no plants growing in it.

Bits of soft mud or slime, known as "ooze," have been brought up from deep parts of the bottom. Samples of this dark substance have been studied with care under the microscope. In a single drop of ooze there may be dozens of "fossils" of tiny ocean animals. Some kinds of ooze contain hard parts of tiny plants which lived and died near the surface, but later sank to the bottom.

Midwest Crowns Will Go on Block

MEET IS SATURDAY

Carleton and Cornell Favored to Retain Respective Titles

The climax of the season for all swimming and wrestling teams of the Midwest conference will be the individual and team championships to be decided at Alexander gymnasium at Lawrence college Saturday afternoon.

Carleton, the defending champion, will be favored in the fifth annual swimming event, which is fast becoming of major importance in the sports programs of the league. Beloit looks to have the best chance of challenging Carleton for the title, which the latter has held the last three years. The Gold has several of their outstanding performers of last season plus the sensational rookie of the year in sophomore Doug Morton.

Five of the seven conference records were broken last year, two by Lawrence and three by Carleton. No such disregard for previous marks is expected this year, inasmuch as the times are beginning to compare favorably with the best in middle-west competition. Entries from Knox, Carleton and Mousmouth are expected.

Cornell, with the best small college wrestling team in the country, is practically assured of retaining its title of champion, in the most important sport at the Mt. Vernon college. They will no doubt be pushed the hardest by Beloit, who feature Bill Brannon, a mighty fine grappler although handicapped by total blindness, and two of last year's champions, Loyal Plinke at 175 pounds, who has been undefeated for two years, and a 165 pounder, Bob Littlejohn. Little is known of the other teams, in either swimming or wrestling so the previously named favorites may be making some unexpected acquaintances after competition gets under way.

VICTORY DAY
Ripon—(7)—Monday was victory day at Ripon college when students and faculty declared a holiday to celebrate Ripon's first mid-west conference basketball championship. Classroom doors were locked and all classes abandoned for the day.

A big, noisy demonstration for Coach Donald Martin and members of the squad was held in the gym during the morning. Capt. Dayle Bailett, Augusta, presented Coach Martin with a traveling case as a gift from the "R" club. Talks were given by senior members of the team.

The celebration was scheduled to wind up with a victory dinner at the college commons, and a dance at the gym. Ripon's only other mid-west conference title was won in track in 1923.

Appleton Bowlers Win Bowling Match, Lose One at Elks

Catholic Knight bowlers of Appleton won one match and lost one in competition with Catholic Knight kegglers of Milwaukee on Elks alleys Sunday.

H. Boehme bowled 211 and 577. H. Black 203, and H. Eastmann 200 as one Appleton team won 2,609 to 2,435. The second Appleton team was defeated 2,082 to 1,293 by the Milwaukee men. J. Caplain's 464 series was highest in the losers column.

Ward smashed 225, 209, and 615 and Radtke 202 as Appleton Wire Works beat Wisconsin Wire Works 2,604 to 2,471 in a weekend match on Elks alleys. Baier had 200 and 532 and J. Tormow 212 for the losers.

With Schroeder shooting 202 and G. Kipper 492, Bretschneider's Fuchs beat Wichmann's 2,256 to 2,197 in an Elks alleys match. R. Cook's 205 and 505 were high for the losers.

Demon Historian Questions Baseball's 100th Birthday

BY DREW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK—(7)—Well, how do you like that? Just when everyone was getting whipped up about 100 years of baseball and statemen were rising in congress to point out Joe Whiff was the first left-handed pitcher ever to ride in a horse car and how about a grand or so to fix up his grave—it all turns out it ain't so.

Like many a trusting fan, your agent believed the historians and he believed in the centenary of baseball.

Class B Cagers In Final Drills For Tourney Play

SHAWANO—Defenders of the coveted state Class B title and consequently on the spot, the Maroon and Black warriors of Shawano will enter the Oconto district tournament Thursday night with no illusions about winning their games with newspaper clippings.

The Indians open their campaign against Niagara in the first round, and obvious as the advice may seem, Coach Clifford Dilts is impressing on them the idea of playing Niagara first.

When a team with the 1933 state crown, a share of the 1933 conference title and 14 victories in 15 starts goes into a tournament, the pressure is on in every game and one explosion from overconfidence wrecks the whole campaign. As a result of a week of carefully-planned practice, however, the Shawano cagers are in probably their finest condition of the season on the eve of the tournament.

The Indians opened the season in unimpressive fashion as a more or less one-man team, but wound it up with several serious offensive threats on the roster. Billy Reed, sophomore scoring sensation, counted 197 points in 15 games on 77 field goals and 43 gift tosses, but in recent games Vern Rosenow and Uriban Gottschalk got into the limelight.

TRUCKERS DESPAIR
Clintonville—Once more the Clintonville High basketball squad goes into the district tournament, this year at Menasha, without a single victory over any one of the seven other schools represented in fact without a win over anybody for this season. To make matters worse Clintonville faces the Neenah Red Rockets, co-holders of the Western division title of the Northeastern conference along with the Shawano Indians, in the first game of the tournament on Wednesday night at 7:30 p. m. The Clinis reached their peak against the Rockets in their last encounter a week ago but fell down considerably last Friday at Waupaca, another team in the tournament, where the county seakers were on the long end of a 34 to 19 count.

The hapless Clint squad will probably be without the full services of Ozzie Goerlinger, senior center, who has been a consistent force in recent games. Goerlinger was injured at Waupaca Friday where he contracted a very painful eye injury. It was the first game all season that Goerlinger had gone scoreless.

MEET MOSINEE

Manawa—Manawa basketball squad will leave Wednesday for Merrill where it will participate in the Class B District Cage tourney. The Wolves finished their conference season in a dead-lock with the Central Wisconsin title with Weyauwega on a record of eight victories and two defeats. They successfully downed every team in the loop the first half and were stopped only by Weyauwega and Marion in the second. They also showed a fine brand of basketball in a post season encounter with a highly rated New London five last week. The Wolves will meet the undefeated Mosinee squad in their first start Wednesday evening.

fellow named Alexander Cartwright really was the founder, not General Abner Doubleday. Cartwright drew up the first set of rules in 1846.

The fellow who figured it all out is Frank Menke, the demon historian who broods on such matters. There is no way of proving who is right but the family shirt rides on Frank. He is accurate to a degree.

Menke says that back in 1907 a commission set to work to find out who was responsible, there being one or two fanatics on hand who figured the game was here to stay.

The group decided on Abner as the Godfather and Cooperstown the site. A. G. Spaulding, a Cartwright fan, agreed to agree with their findings and no one gave it a second thought or even a first until Menke started spraying facts and figures all over East 42nd street.

Menke says the game was played widely in the east before 1839, the natal year according to the commission, and not in Cooperstown. Furthermore, says Menke, there is no conclusive evidence the game was played in Cooperstown in 1839.

Also this borer-within-points out a game similar to baseball was played in the United States years before Doubleday was born. He claims it was similar to cricket.

Well, that's about it. Menke says it started before 1839, didn't have a fixed set of rules until Cartwright wrote them down on a restaurant tablecloth and Cooperstown has no more legitimate claim as the birthplace than East Paw-Paw.

Training Camp Notes

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Ken Sears, the husky catcher from Norfolk, is working out at first base for the New York Yankees. Joe McCarthy is toying with the notion he would be a handy man to retain to replace Gehrig.

Baton Rouge, La.—With Burgess Whitehead, considered his regular second baseman, still unheard from, Bill Terry turned back to the rest of his second base squad for consolation. There are four around—Alex Kampouris, Lou Chiozza, veterans, Tom Haley and Alban Glessop, rookies.

Lakeland, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers, with their outfield still unsettled, are eyeing another rookie, Leslie Fleming, up from Beaumont. He can hit, as shown in batting practice. The Tigers want to know if he can go and get that apple, too.

Bradenton, Fla.—With four other National league clubs, the Cubs, Giants, Pirates, and Dodgers, interested in Max West, despite his 234 average in 1938, Casey Stengel is going to await the arrival of the youngster at the Boston Bees' camp before making any decisions about the right field berth.

San Jose, Calif.—The non-arrival of outfielders Ted Williams and Fabian Gaffke is beginning to irk Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox. Otherwise everything is rosy.

Pasadena, Calif.—The condition of Shortstop Luke Appling has cheered the Chicago White Sox—who certainly need cheering—considerably. Appling, the league's top hitter in 1937, reported three pounds overweight, but says the leg he broke last season is in fine shape and ready to stand the strain of a pennant chase.

Avalon, Calif.—Jim Gleeson, the rookie outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has stolen the show with his lusty hitting in batting practice.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Don Padgett may be a catcher from now on. Manager Ray Blades of the St. Louis Cardinals has hinted.

San Antonio, Texas—From Vice President Bill De Witt's cheerful countenance when he arrived last night to watch his St. Louis Browns train, those six louds may be weakening. The six pitchers Howard Mills, Buck Newsum and Fred Johnson, catcher Billy Sullivan and infielders Ralph Kress and Don Heffner, are not the only ones missing Mel Almada and Roy Hughes, supposedly en route, still are absent.

BOXING

Illinois, which finished in third place, was the only team to place two men on the 1938-39 Big Ten All-star basketball team. The team, as selected by the conference coaches for The Associated Press was: James Hull, Ohio State and Ben Stephens, Iowa, forward; Lewis "Pick" Dehner, Illinois, center; William Hapac, Illinois, and Ernest Andres, Indiana, guards.

W. Resch Leads Valley Catholic Circuit Scoring

St. Mary Cager Has 28 Baskets, 11 Gift Shots For 67 Points

MENASHA—By the margin of a single field goal, William Resch, junior St. Mary High school basketball guard, holds the scoring lead in the Fox Valley Catholic conference. Resch has scored 28 field goals and 11 free throws for 67 points. VanAsten of St. John is only 2 points behind with 65 points on 27 field goals and 11 free throws. Resch has committed 13 fouls and VanAsten 9.

The two players have a long lead over the third place scorer, Duex of St. Mary's of Oshkosh who has 51 points on 18 field goals and 15 free throws. Schneider of St. Peter, Oshkosh is 1 point behind with 50 points while Reuben Prunuske, St. Mary center, is in fifth place with 49 points.

However, players on the St. John and St. Mary of Menasha teams have accumulated all of the points possible this season for they have completed their schedule. Players of the other three teams in the conference have a chance to improve their standings for the conference schedule has not been completed.

The players of the St. Mary and St. Peter squads of Oshkosh have one game left while the St. Norbert players have two games left. Duex and Schneider, star Oshkosh guards, probably will wage a battle for third place in the final scoring standings while Collins of St. Norbert, who is in tenth place, also can improve his standing.

Duex needs 16 points in order to tie Resch for first place in the scoring while Schneider needs one more than that. Resch has scored the most field goals of any player in the conference with 28. Schneider of St. Peter's has the most free throws with 18.

Has 19 Fouls
William Coenen, St. Mary forward, has collected the most personal fouls with 19 in eight games. Prunuske of the Zephyrs and Schneider of the Keymen are tied for second, high total in that division with 15 fouls each. Hammen, Flying Dutchman guard who is in seventh place in the scoring, has collected three 13s. He has 13 field goals, 13 free throws and 13 fouls.

William Dowling, a graduate of St. Patrick grade school of Menasha who is a freshman at St. Norbert college high, has played in four games with the Green Knights although he has not scored any points. He is the only freshman on the St. Norbert squad.

The leading scorers of the conference follow:

Stephens Makes All-Star Team Though Iowa Finished in Cellar

BY TOM SILER
Chicago—(7)—The University of Illinois, although finishing no better than third in the Western conference basketball race landed two men on the Associated Press' all-star team, selected by Big Ten coaches.

The Illini furnished Lewis (Pick) Dehner at center and Bill Hapac, captain-elect, at guard, the team's two highest scorers and most dependable performers.

The forward slots went to Jimmy Hull, Ohio State captain and forward who led the league in individual scoring, and Ben Stephens, Iowa captain and forward. The other guard is Ernest Andres, Indiana captain and guard.

The coaches placed great accent on basket-shooting in their choice of players. All five of the first team members are among the first ten scorers of the conference, having run up a total of 668 points, an average of 133 each in 12 games.

Normally a Forward
This is further emphasized by the fact they found a place at guard for Hapac, normally a forward, apparently because he was too good to leave off although Stephens and Hull had the forward spots locked up by stellar offensive work.

Hull scored 169 points for the season, Dehner 151, Stephens 135, Hapac 118 and Andres 95. Ohio State's championship team placed two men—Bob Lynch and John Schick—on the second team. John Kundla of Minnesota teamed with Lynch at the forwards. Schick won the center position and Fred Beretta and Robert Volgs of Purdue and Northwestern, respectively, were awarded guard posts.

The first team, surveyed from a statistical standpoint, has everything—experience, size, color and all-around ability. Of the first five only Hull is under six feet—his height being five feet 11 inches. All are senior stars except Hapac, a junior.

One of the most notable feats of the season is Stephens' ability to make the team despite the fact he played with the cellar outfit. He scored almost a third of his team's points, often keeping the Hawkeyes in the game singlehandedly against superior opposition.

Last-Quarter Rally Wins For Guardsmen in Game at Armory

Company D's last-quarter rally gave the guardsmen a 33-32 victory over the Y. M. C. A. All-stars at Armory G last night following drill. The guardsmen have won 16 games and lost six this year.

Bauers dropped in six baskets and Kneip four buckets and a free throw for the winners. Paulie was the evening's high scorer with 14 points.

The Y. M. C. A. team led 13-17 at the half 26-23 at the end of the third quarter. Each team made 15 field goals, but Company D netted one more free throw.

The guardsmen will play at Two Rivers Friday night and at Oshkosh Sunday.

THE Buckeyes added victory No. 4 to their record in the National division of the Y. M. C. A. Older Boys basketball league last night, defeating Lincoln 23-18. The Buckeyes have exclusive possession of first-place standing, with the Lincoln team second.

Led by Schwerke and Bergner who had eight points apiece, the Buckeyes dominated the game, holding the Lincoln team scoreless in the third quarter. The Lincoln quintet tried to wrest a victory away in the closing minutes by shooting from the center of the floor, but couldn't make their count. Dohr's six points made him high man for the losers.

Shinners of the Foulers sneaked through for a sleeper with 27 seconds left to play and gave his team a 25-23 victory over the Mercury team. Shinners scored 10 of his team's points in a fast, interesting game. Bartman had nine points for the Mercury quintet.

The Badgers chalked up their first victory by beating the Vikings 24-19 last night in an upset game. The Vikings led for three quarters, but fell before a fighting Badger attack in the last quarter. Kamps hit the nets for three baskets and four free throws for the victors. Block had eight points to pace the Vikings. The box scores follow:

Cleveland Holds Three Wins Over Oshkosh Quintet

All Stars Hope to Salvage One Tilt Out of Four-Game Series

OSHKOSH—The schedule of the Oshkosh All Stars in the National Basketball league will come to an end Saturday evening in a game here with the Cleveland, O. White Horses, the only team in a position to make a clean sweep of the four-game series with the Oshkosh entry.

Oshkosh is Western division champion of the National league, while Cleveland, formerly Warren, Pa., is in the second division of the Eastern section, but nevertheless the White Horses hold three wins over the All Stars in as many games this year and may make it a clean sweep Saturday.

In the second league game played this season at Oshkosh, the Warren team, whose franchise was later transferred to Cleveland, nosed out the All Stars in an overtime game by a score of 38 to 37.

At Warren on Oshkosh's first trip east the All Stars were again on the short end of a score by 43 to 39 and when the teams met again on Feb. 28 at Cleveland before a crowd of 3,500 people, it took two overtime periods before Cleveland won by 30 to 28. The regulation playing time ended 21-all and the score was deadlocked at 23-all at the end of the first extra session.

Kilian, Vopel Win Six-Day Bike Race

German Duo Fights Off Late Last-Hour Sprints At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—(7)—Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel last night won Milwaukee's six-day bike race, fighting off late last-hour sprints of Jimmy Walthour and Al Crossley. The New York-Boston team finished second with the same mileage as the Germans, 2,466.9, but with 786 less points.

Kilian and Vopel were on top since the fourth day. The Canadian team of Jules Audy and Torchy Peden, once leading, was broken up with 34 hours to go as Audy withdrew because of injuries. When Bob Thomas of Kanosha withdrew for the same reason, Peden paired with Cecil Yates of Chicago and the new team finished fifth.

Thomas and Yates had been injured several days earlier, in spills, but had continued. Only seven of eleven starting teams finished, the Spanish-Italian combination of Bobby Echevarria and Charley Bergna dropping out 50 minutes before the finish.

Closing teams were led by Yates and Charley Vaccino and Ewald Wissel, Italian-German team, who picked up three laps in four hours but still finished seventh.

Sportsmen's Clubs Divided in Opinion On Season for Pike

Wupaca County Groups. Except New London. Fremont, Favor April 20

New London — Conservation clubs of Wupaca county, with the exception of Fremont and New London, favor following the state conservation commission's recommendation of the opening of the pike fishing season on the Wolf river be left at April 20 this year. It was reported at a meeting of the New London club last night by Rudy Ploetz, president.

At a county meeting at Manawa last week, the county delegates reported on their meeting at Madison at which officials of the department requested the clubs to cooperate this year on the later date. While the study of spawn on April 10 was favorable last year, ice fishing on Lake Winnebago has been discouraged this year and the department feels the river season also should be delayed, they reported. The department also would like to make another check on spawn this season and if favorable again would be willing to grant a permanent opening on April 10.

In cooperation with other clubs, directors of the New London organization have advised congressmen that they favor retaining the present form of the conservation commission over the one man director system which has been proposed. County delegates will return to Madison Wednesday to intercede against the change.

Will Erect Brooder

The New London club is making preparations to erect another pheasant brooder pen at the Hatten memorial park this spring, according to President Ploetz, and 500 pheasant chicks have been promised the club. About 25 pheasant feeders are being maintained on pheasant hunting grounds now, Ploetz reported.

A 1939 membership of over 150 was reported after a partial check-up on the membership drive last night. Many ticket returns were not reported and many more are still expected to be sold. The first Monday of the month was set as the regular meeting night at the American Legion clubhouse.

After the meeting last night W. T. Comstock showed five reels of black and white and color movies taken on a moose hunt in Canada and sight-seeing trip into the western United States.

Boys' Class Serves Supper at Meeting Of Education Board

New London — The fourth period class of Miss Mabel Nock's boys home economics students served a special 6 o'clock supper to members of the New London school board at the high school last evening. Members of the board were at the school to hear the report of H. H. Helms, superintendent, on the National Education conference at Cleveland, O., last week.

Acting as host was Walter Haese with Tim Kellogg as head waiter. Desserts and Lawrence Manske as waiters. Delbert Ott as head chef and Donald Popke, Gerald Surprise, William Budwit, Louis Poepeke and Dick Wyman assisting chefs. The boys prepared all the food and did the serving.

Teachers Hear Report On Cleveland Conclave

New London—A report on the annual conference of the National Education association at Cleveland, O., last week, was given before the meeting of the New London Teachers association at Washington High school yesterday afternoon by H. H. Helms, superintendent of New London schools. Mr. Helms attended the full week's conference at Cleveland.

Miss Mary Patten, assistant high school home economics instructor, gave a brief report on the provisions of the Harrison-Fletcher legislative bill providing federal aid to education.

Members of the board of education attended the teachers' meeting to hear the report of Mr. Helms.

Funeral of Mrs. Klug To be Held Thursday

New London — Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Klug, 67, who died Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Paul, 813 S. Pearl street, after a year's illness, will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Most Precious Blood Catholic church with the Rev. R. J. Fox in charge. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

The Senior sodality of the Catholic church, of which she was a member, will gather for prayer at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the Fekken-Kirchner Funeral home where the body will remain until the time of the funeral.

E. DePere Cagers to be First Tournament Foes of Stacymen

New London—The New London High school basketball squad will begin the annual grind toward its fifth district basketball tournament title in six years at the new Menasha High school gym Wednesday evening and faces one of the toughest schedules of any year.

E. DePere, finishing close behind the leaders of the eastern division of the same Northeastern Wisconsin conference, will be New London's first entanglement at 8:30 Wednesday evening. New London High school dopsters are counting on a Red and White victory despite the questionable outcome and a large number of student fans have registered to travel to the game by school bus.

The Stacymen are entering the tourney with one of the best conference records in years, which may prove a handicap in lieu of the fact they have always won championship games as the underdogs. They have won seven games and lost five, finishing second only to Neenah and Shawano who lost only to each other.

May Meet Neenah

Dopster fans will have New London playing Neenah in a feature tilt at 8:30 Friday evening if they can beat East DePere. Neenah will play Clintonville at 7:30 Wednesday evening and the outcome definitely points to the Rockets. If the Bulldogs can humble Neenah, having lost to them on their own floor this season by only one bucket, 18 to 20, the will enter the championship finals at 8:30 Saturday night with Menasha or Kaukauna figured as the opposing finalists.

If East DePere proves too tough for the Stacymen they can assure themselves of the consolation round as then they will meet Clintonville at 8:30 Thursday night and probably would have to contend with West DePere, with whom they broke even in conference play, in the consolation finals at 7:30 Saturday night.

New London's record of 315 total points to 249 for their conference opponents during the season is in their favor but Coach D. N. Stacy gave the squad a verbal lacing at practice Monday night for the jolting let-down against Manawa last week when they pulled the game out of the fire in the closing minutes.

The Bulldog's scoring advantage is accounted for in the fact they lost three important games, to Shawano, Neenah and Kaukauna, by only two points and won half a dozen others by margins of 10 to 20 points.

Walter Bachman Is High in Fellowship League With 560 Pins

New London — Walter Bachman spilled the maples for a 560 pin game in the 10, 127 and 187 lead all series scores on Prahls' alleys last night. He rolled for the Cedar Lawn Dairies in the Good-fellowship league as they dropped two games to the Fords to leave standings unchanged. Marshall Ladwings led the Fords with tallies of 212 and 515. Mike's Taverns took two games from the leading Post Office quint. Art Lasch leading off for the losers with a 540 total and Orrin Krohn collecting a 206 line for the winners.

Lions Club League

The Lions club hit the hardwoods easy while the first place Twisters grabbed two games from the Roarers and the second place Twisters gained two off the Growlers. Lou Sawall's 211 game was high point mark for the Tamers while Gordon and Earl Meiklejohn spilled high counts for the Twisters with 537 and 539, respectively.

Inter-County League

Thurk's Taverns of Sugar Bush tied Len's Tavern for the league lead again at 34 won, 17 lost last night when they tripped the Royalton Merchants three games. Byron's Lunch of Hortonville humbled Len's five with two victories. Melvin Thurk took the evening's honors with best scores of 217 and 492.

New London Man Is Reported Recovering After Auto Accident

New London—Leonard Freiburg, 63, 206 E. Spring street, who was injured in an auto accident on Highway 45 Sunday night, was recovering at Community hospital yesterday with a broken collarbone and bruises about the head.

Sons were born at Community hospital yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. William McAlloon, 302 E. Beacon avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brenske, 215 Wisconsin street.

At home on leave this week from CCC Camp Riverside at Danbury are Bernard Brault, Harold Herres, Leonard Davy, Harold Herres and Simon Barlow.

Homemakers Admit 5 New Members to Club

New London—Five new members were admitted into the Washington High school Homemakers club at a meeting at the high school yesterday afternoon. They are Lila and Bernice Leppia, Virginia Fleese, Mary Loving and Evangeline Sofia. The new members will be initiated at the April meeting.

About 40 girls of the club will be guests of the Shiocion Home Economics club at their meeting at Shiocion High school on Tuesday evening, March 14. The girls will travel to Shiocion in the New London school bus accompanied by Miss Mabel Nock, instructor and adviser.

Women's Patriotic Groups at New London Map Month's Plans

New London—A bake sale, card party and rummage sale were activities planned for the months of March and April by the new working group of the American Legion auxiliary at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Otto Krueger, president, yesterday afternoon.

The bake sale will be held Wednesday, March 15, at the Fekken-Kirchner store building with Mrs. J. Kirchner and Mrs. S. E. Therens in charge. The public card party on Sunday evening, March 26, will be the last of a series and grand prizes will be awarded. Mrs. M. A. Berchardt and Mrs. Walter Spiering will be in charge. The rummage sale will be held in the Gehrke Brothers store building and under the direction of Mrs. Emil Gehrke and Mrs. Oscar Nemschoff.

Others in the working group for the two months are Mrs. John Nugent, Mrs. R. V. Prahls, Mrs. Henry McDowell, Mrs. H. E. Ehrenreich, Mrs. Matt Nesbitt, Miss May Monaghan, Mrs. Henry J. Hofman, Mrs. M. J. Henn, Mrs. E. M. Donner, Mrs. E. L. Edwards, Mrs. Arthur Under, Mrs. Edward Krimke, Mrs. Tom Smith, Mrs. Clarence Walker, Mrs. Floyd Emmott and Mrs. Otto Krueger.

The auxiliary will hold a regular business meeting at the clubhouse Thursday evening with Mrs. Al Stern and Mrs. Walter Smith as hostesses.

A large public card party will be held at the Odd Fellow hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening by the Women's Relief corps. Three committees have been consolidated to stage the event with Mrs. David Richaby, Mrs. Clarence Beaudou and Mrs. Edward Kleinbrook as co-chairmen. On the committee are Mrs. William Dent, Mrs. Ida Blink, Mrs. P. J.

Rotarians Hear Talk by Hansen

Clintonville Organization Supports Max Stieg for District Governor

Clintonville—Ray E. Hansen, reporter and advertising manager of the Clintonville Tribune, was the guest speaker at the Monday noon luncheon of the Rotary club at Hotel Marson. He traced the history of newspapers from their beginning centuries ago in China. Mr. Hansen pointed out some of the problems confronting small town newspapers today and explained how some of them could be met through the cooperation of the newspapers and merchants. One illustration given was that of making a marketing survey of the trading area by local merchants and the association of commerce to ascertain the buying needs of the people in the community.

A graduate of the school of journalism at Marquette university, Mr. Hansen was employed as editor of the Monticene Falls News before assuming his position in this city on Feb. 6.

The Clintonville Rotary club, at its Monday meeting, endorsed Max Stieg of this city as a candidate for the office of district governor. District officers will be elected at the annual district convention to be held at Sturgeon Bay from May 21 to 23. Mr. Stieg is a charter member of the local club and served as its third president.

Rudolph Schmiedeke, who has been spending the winter in California, returned to this city Monday because of the recent injury of his mother, Mrs. Augusta Schmiedeke, 85. The aged woman is confined to the Clintonville Community hospital with a fractured hip suffered in a fall at her home on Brax street.

Mrs. Rudolph Schmiedeke will remain in the west for a longer visit at the home of her son at Garden Grove, Calif. The Schmiedeokes motored to the west coast early in January with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Perkins and daughter, Leone, of this city.

Tommy Malueg, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Malueg of this city, was admitted to the Clintonville hospital Monday suffering with pneumonia.

Norman Radtke, 20, of Marion returned to the hospital Monday for further treatment following a recent accident after which he was confined to the local hospital for a number of weeks.

Betty Knaack, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nora Knaack of this city, underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday at the local hospital.

Retired Physician Talks on Poetry at Rotary Club Session

New London — Dr. G. E. Woodruff, E. Cook street, entertained the New London Rotary club with original poems and an explanation of the different types of poems and poetry at the noon luncheon meeting of the club at the Elwood hotel yesterday.

Now over 70, Dr. Woodruff began the writing of poems as a hobby three years ago and had much of his work published in local papers in the south where he gained quite a large fan following. His poems appear currently in the local New London press. The doctor-poet has written hundreds of verses in the Edgar Guest style on a wide variety of subjects. He was interested in poetry while a youth at Lawrence college at Appleton but his early efforts were discouraged and he never returned to it until his retirement from medical practice several years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Woodruff returned to New London last fall after living in the south.

Milwaukee Clothiers Will Open New Store

New London — Sidney Friedman and Adolph Lercher, Milwaukee clothiers, will open a new business in the store building now occupied by the Block clothing store on N. Water street, it was announced this week. The new proprietors will present a new line of men and women's furnishings as soon as the present stock is sold out by Max Block who has operated the store the last two years. Friedman and Lercher also operate stores at Milwaukee and Waukesha.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

Journalist. But we both know that, along with brilliance, Peter has some very blind spots."

She did not answer. He went on, "That is why, though I know I ought to be dissuading you, I'm glad you'll be with him in Soviet Russia. Up till now, it has been experience for you; grimmer than I like the idea of a girl of your age encountering, but nevertheless, something of an education. That may be different. But since you're so game for adventure—"

Petronella smiled. "Yes?" If only he knew, she thought, secretly amused. He visualized her as adventurous. Actually, she was such a coward! She would have given almost anything not to go to Russia. Anything, except the opportunity, for Peter. She was horribly afraid. She wanted to stay in Ballfield. To idle the days away, at peace. To try, once more, to fall in love with James, who had not found any other girl while she had been away. But Peter would be thrilled by the chance of going. She remembered, suddenly, that Tony might still be in Russia. She might meet him again? Anyway, it would be useless to imagine she would have any peace, if Peter went alone. But life was forcing this choice upon her. It was not her own.

"See here, Petrel, you may find you get hard up, paying this ransom, and traveling so often. Why don't you try writing me some little things? Articles on life in the countries you have seen; on their customs, and cookery, and dress, and the status of their women? You could, quite easily."

"Not if I can possibly help it!" she laughed. She had no ambition. She felt no desire to write. But it might be necessary. "If the OGPU puts all my relations in jail—"

Martin Rowdon was staring at her again. Was he comparing her, her appearance, this conversation, with that first time they met, just under three years ago? When she had waited in his outer office, and waited, trembling, for his verdict on Peter's articles? A great deal had happened to make her feel at ease with him. They were friends. She felt changed, yet, with regard to one thing, inexorably the same. Though she had not known it, she had loved Tony even then.

His next words startled her. "Do you remember Tony Lane?"

He told me he met you in Rangoon. You may run into him in Moscow. That is, if he hasn't been sent to Persia."

She asked Jewelly, "What is his job, exactly, now?"

"I can't tell you. Officially, I don't know myself."

"You mean—intelligence service—like Rene Howard?"

"Except that Rene usually procures information and Tony translates it intelligently, and advises action. I shall write, or wire him, that you and Peter are coming to Russia. He may be able to help you."

Winter—Spring

Petronella rode westwards on the top of a bus. She held the list of linen which she wanted. Christmas presents she must buy. But she forgot to study it. At first, she thought of Russia, with apprehension, Tony, with trepidation. Tony did not want to have her forced upon him. If only the present represented the future! She belonged in England. James wanted her. She was enjoying arranging the cottage. Days, like today, when she went shopping, like other women, and met a young lover, were precious. But she and Peter would seldom live in their cottage, and she must leave James behind. Home for her, must be a place where one left old clothes, photographs and trophies.

"It seems all wrong," she thought, helplessly. She crossed out "two pairs of sheets," and wrote the figure three. Marigold was coming down to stay for Christmas. She did not know for certain, but could easily guess, what Jeremy Charrod would have to say about it, when he heard. Marigold was supposed to be marrying him, at last, in June. Petrel felt troubled by the significance of that third pair of sheets. She remembered that once she had thought Marigold's life looked like being very simple, and straightforward. She had been mistaken.

Peter was found of her. Perhaps he was in love with her. When she was near him, he became obsessed by her warmth and beauty. But he would go again. The moment he heard definitely from Martin Rowdon that he could go to Russia, she would be forgotten. All his scattered belongings would be thrown into a suitcase. Along with that trunk he never unpacked, he would be catching the next train. If Marigold loved him, she would have to love him multitudinous, attractive possessions. Become as mobile as she had done. Learn to travel at short notice, and travel light. Petronella thought of her present wardrobe. A tweed suit, her fur coat, two evening dresses which rolled, and came out looking respectable. Silver sandals. One silk dress, which she could tie in a knot, if she liked, and wear at the end of a journey, one woolen dress. It was impossible to imagine Marigold doing that. There were too many intriguing bottles on her dressing table.

James walked the down platform of Ballfield station gloomily. He wished Petrel were in England. But she was not here. She might still be in Russia. Or Peter might have received the orders he was expecting to go to Germany. In her letter, which was in his wallet, she said they were afraid whether he would be admitted into Germany. Everything was tightening up there under National Socialism. His last visit might be considered a bad record.

No. Instead, he was here to meet these pathetic relatives. Stephen and Tamara Morovitch, whose freedom from the Soviet regime had cost the Mallones several thousands of rubles.

"Please look after her a little, and help her to be happy till father arrives home (about April 7). I think," Petrel had written, of her girl cousin. She was afraid Ballfield might think her a little strange, when she walked through the village to do her shopping in her rough Soviet regulation clothes, and heavy boots. Would he hand her over to Marigold, with the enclosed check, for a day's shopping? Tamara and her father were to live in the empty cottage, until Colonel Mallone came home. Petrel hoped to be in England herself soon. Then they would see what was best for everyone. Uncle Stephan was artistic. He took beautiful photographs. He would be happy again, if he could earn money, as he used to do in his "Art shop," before all his property was confiscated.

Another sentence stood out in James' memory. "Both Peter and I are rather run down."

Hollandtown — A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. William Bruecker at St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay.

At the card party Sunday afternoon at St. Francis church hall 40 tables were at play. Mrs. Joseph Mieke received women's high prize at schafskopf; Mrs. F. J. Wolfinger, second; Ervin Verhagen, men's first, and George Broenen, second; at skat, Ben Brochtrup, first, and Richard, second; at five hundred, Mrs. Lloyd Pfeffer, and Mrs. Mike Kleiber, Brillion, first and second. Mrs. Henry Lehner of Poyssippi received the prize for coming the greatest distance.

St. Francis school was closed Monday because of the drifted roads.
